

Some Cuts Restored

Legislature Passes Budget

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—After hours of largely ceremonial debate, the New York legislature has approved a $7.87-billion state budget that is only $30 million less than the bare-bones budget Gov. Nelson Rockefeller asked for.

Little of the debate Tuesday involved the content of the budget. Instead, most of the opposition from Democrats centered on the way the budget was presented.

Legislators—with the help of a lawsuit by State Comptroller Arthur Levitt — wrung from Rockefeller a few details of how the money would be spent by some agencies.

But one of the Democrats who pushed for details, Assemblyman H.A. Posner, D-Queens, complained that the details only covered a portion of the spending programs, and he was still not completely satisfied.

There was no really new bad news for taxpayers in the 1,000 pages of spending plans. No new taxes will be needed to finance the budget — they were enacted in January when the legislature voted $407 million in taxes intended to meet what Rockefeller said was a growing budget deficit.

The lack of a revenue side of the budget took much of the edge off the debate, leaving few real issues to argue about.

When the debate finally ended and the votes were tallied, the legislators left for a 13-day Easter-Passover recess. They reconvene April 10.

The only increases in appropriations for programs were in public education and welfare.

Rockefeller asked for the increases in education and welfare, saying that to freeze them at their current levels would actually amount to cutting their budgets.

The legislators won the increases in mental health and narcotics education as concessions for their support for the revenue package in January.

The City University of New York could wind up getting as much as $17.5 million more from the state—if the city can come up with matching money.

This was a concession to help woo the votes of some New York City lawmakers who complained that the City University was not getting enough money.

But the same maneuver cost a few votes because several Democrats from the Buffalo area balked, saying the city would benefit at the expense of western New York.

The $30-million reduction in Rockefeller's budget proposal was the smallest cut the legislature has made in many years. To keep the cut that small yet provide more money for some programs, the legislators came up with a delicately balanced series of cuts here, additions there and shifts from one program to another.

Some things could not be covered in the budget bills, but will have to be paid for in the deficiency budget next session or in special appropriation bills.

One of these would be any pay raise state employees get from the negotiations now under way with the administration.

Before and after the budget debate, the legislature managed to clear scores of other bills from its calendar.

Among them were:

—A bill to eliminate the requirement that school children be immunized against smallpox. Health officials have said the vaccinations are more of a threat than the disease.

—Legislation to expand the New York City Board of Elections from four members to 10. Opponents said the measure would cost too much, but supporters said the extra benefits would be worth the added cost.

—A bill to give State Police the pay raise they had negotiated with the state.

—A proposal to turn over to the state any unclaimed winnings from betting with the New York City Offtrack Betting Corp., and to divide evenly between the state and city the breakage, the odd money left after winning bets are rounded off.

Local Officials Figured Right on Spending

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON

The 1972-73 state budget passed by the Legislature was just about what local budget officials figured four months ago when they drew up their own spending plans. It means that the fiscal crisis caused by state cutbacks in April of last year will probably be avoided this year.

"I doubt if we'll have a budget crisis this year," John Houghtaling, principal clerk in the city treasurer's office told The Freeman today. Last year, the state had projected a figure of $1,150,000 in revenue to the city but the final figure was only $868,000. The city had to cut spending across the board. This year, the city figured $795,000 in state aid, "a little on the low side," according to Houghtaling, and expects to get at least that much.

Fred DuBois, county treasurer, figured that the 1972 Ulster County budget, approved in December of last year, "should pretty much stand" as a result of the new state budget. "It seems as if they're following the benchmarks on what they planned before the first of the year," DuBois said. "I would expect that reimbursements would be just about the same." The county, due to unrealized state revenues, last year ran a deficit of more than $800,000 which had to be made up in the 1972 budget.

Assemblyman H. Clark Bell (R-Woodstock), who voted for the budget, said today, "It was not everything that everybody wanted but it appears to be the best that could be produced under the economic retrenchment being experienced by the state. If the budget had been defeated," Bell said, "it would have made for so many hardships that responsibly, you could not vote against it."

The state budget provided a mixed bag for Ulster County.

On one hand, $750,000 was provided for the continued development of Kenneth L. Wilson State Park in Wittenberg; $300,000 was appropriated for snow making equipment at Belleayre Ski Center and motor vehicle testing centers were restored in Ellenville and Kingston. The campus schools in New Paltz were also "saved" for another year along with appropriations for the training of local volunteer firemen.

On the other hand, there will be no funding for Ulster County road building with the exception of a section of Route 213 in Rifton. Local officials had counted on appropriations for the Kingston-Ulster Arterial and for the new Route 209. The Kingston-Ulster Arterial is the key to the city of Kingston's financing of its $25 million urban renewal projects, providing some $3 million in state "credits" to pay the city's federal urban renewal debt, one-eighth of the overall cost. The Route 209 realignment has been long overdue in the opinion of most local officials.

"The road situation in the state is very bad," said Bell. "There will be no new construction or reconstruction anywhere in the state. It will be strictly a patchup and hold operation."

The building program at the State University College at New Paltz were severely slashed from a projected $7.6 million down to only $1.8 million. The operating budget at New Paltz was also cut from $11.6 in fiscal 1971 to $10.5 million this year. The $1.87 million approved by the legislature will be used to pay for remaining ground improvements and for the completion of the construction of the student union building. A $5.7 million new health and physical education building was deleted.

The Eastern Correctional Facility at Nanapanoch was cut from $4.53 million to $3.76 million and Wallkill Prison was cut from $2.88 million to $2.72 million.

It is possible that Ulster County could get additional funds under the governor's supplemental budget which will be passed later in the year. But that will depend a great deal on whether the federal government approves some $400 million in revenue sharing figured in the 1972-73 state budget. "If the federal government doesn't come through with the (projected) revenue sharing, we could be running a deficit of $750 million this year," Bell said.

Ulster Returns Slowly to Normal

(Combined Wire Services)

BELFAST, Northern Ireland

A bombing in east Belfast early today capped a night of violence in the city that began with the end of a Protestant rally protesting British takeover of the Northern Ireland government.

The army said about a dozen stores were damaged by the explosion, estimated by army experts to have been caused by a 25 to 30 pound gelignite bomb. No injuries were reported.

Life in Northern Ireland began to return to normal today following a two-day work stoppage by Protestants angered by Britain's suspension of their government.

However, "normality" in today's case included sniper bullets fired at British army troops. Such attacks had been all but eliminated during the past week's political turmoil.

Some 35 shots were aimed at army posts in Londonderry, including two bursts of automatic weapons fire. The troops returned the fire in some cases, but no casualties were reported.

In London, the House of Commons Tuesday night passed by a 485-vote majority a bill ending 51 years of unbroken Protestant rule over Northern Ireland. Government sources said it would become law sometime Thursday.

Buses and trains rolled out of their terminals, planes resumed flights in and out of Belfast airport, and electricity boards ended power cuts as thousands of Protestants returned to their jobs.

More than 100,000 Protestants turned out at a rally Tuesday to see Stormont, the Northern Ireland parliament, close its doors for at least a year. Some Protestants are convinced it closed forever.

Violence broke out following the emotional rally. Protestants heading back to their homes in the mixed Old Park Road area said they were stoned by Roman Catholics and later Protestant youths set fire to a Roman Catholic school.

British troops used rubber bullets to disperse the crowds that built up after the incidents. In the same area, two Protestants were shot and slightly wounded by a sniper in a side street, an army spokesman said, and Protestants set offices of a Roman Catholic doctor and dentist ablaze.

The army said that three persons were killed in the Protestant-Catholic clashes, but later indications were that the report was erroneous.

Troops also came under sniper fire on nearby Roman Catholic Glenview Street, the spokesman said. Fire was returned and the soldiers believed they hit the gunman.

The Protestant mobs, dormant for more than a year, took to the streets Tuesday night after a giant rally protesting the adjournment of the provincial parliament and its suspension for a year. The moves were ordered by British troops had to force their way to the fire with armored cars.

A ring of armor was thrown around Belfast's Catholic Unity flats district when it was down barricades.

night to support direct rule threatened by a Protestant from London. The measure becomes law tonight.

Crowds of Protestant youths attacked a store on Belfast's Oldpark Road, a street where Roman Catholics are a 3-1 minority. The homes of two Catholic families were burned.

Earlier in the evening, elderly Catholics were driven out of their houses in the same street by Protestant youths who smashed their windows with stones. Fire engines were pelted with missiles, and British troops had to force their way to the fire with armored cars.

A ring of armor was thrown around Belfast's Catholic Unity flats district when it was down barricades.

In Portadown, in County Armagh, where militant Protestants have taken over, barricades sealing off Catholic streets were guarded by some soldiers while others tore down Protestant barriers.

The British troops had been maligned by Catholics as instruments of Protestant domination. But with the provincial government swept aside by London, the picture significantly changed. The Catholics fear a violent Protestant backlash against the loss of power and on Tuesday, Catholic women were giving tea to the soldiers manning the Portadown barracks.

ORANGE PROTEST—In a continuation of demonstration more than 100,000 angry Protestants marched on Stormont Castle to protest dissolution of the Northern Ireland Parliament and the beginning of rule by London. The statue of Queen Victoria looks out upon crowd assembled outside Belfast City Hall. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Hanoi Won't Quit Talks. Political Solution Aim

PARIS (UPI)—North Vietnam said today it will refuse to abandon the suspended Vietnam peace conference and will continue to seek a political solution to the Vietnam war.

It warned at the same time it will continue fighting until the United States gives up its policy of arming and training South Vietnamese forces to fight in its place.

At a news conference by the Hanoi delegation to the talks, the North Vietnamese said they will seek to revive the conference, broken off by President Nixon last week after 38 months of deadlock.

The delegation released to newsmen a statement from the Hanoi foreign minister "concerning the sabotage of the Paris conference by the Nixon administration."

Nixon said he ordered a boycott of the talks because the Hanoi and Viet Cong delegations refused to "negotiate seriously" and used the weekly meetings as a "propaganda forum."

The Hanoi declaration said: "The Vietnamese people will resolutely struggle to defend their fatherland's independence and freedom. At the same time they will persistently maintain the Paris conference on Vietnam to seek a political solution of the Vietnam problem, on the basis of guarantee for the Vietnamese people's fundamental national rights and the South Vietnamese people's right to self-determination."

The talks were deadlocked on Communist demands that the United States announce a final date for total U.S. troop withdrawal and that it overthrow President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam.

Until these demands were met unconditionally, the Communists said, no other questions could be discussed.

Kingston 100 Today

KINGSTON

Kingston's seven living mayors were honored today at ceremonies marking the 100th anniversary of the merging of the villages of Kingston and Rondout into the modern colonial city.

An overflow crowd attended the centennial luncheon at the Gov. Clinton Hotel, sponsored by the Kingston Rotary Club. Also in attendance were members of the Kiwanis Club, Lions Club, Jaycees and Exchange Club.

The Kingston Medal, the city's highest honor (it was last presented to Holland's Princess Beatrix when she visited the city for the 350th anniversary of Henry Hudson's voyage in 1599) was presented to former Mayor Conrad Heiselman. William F. Edelzuth, Oscar V. Newkirk, Edwin F. Radel, John Schwenk, Raymond W. Garraghan and to the city's current chief executive, Francis R. Koenig. Each mayor was asked to give a brief resume of his years in office. Heiselman and Edelzuth, vacationing in Florida, sent tape recordings.

Radel, called out of town on a business commitment, sent a letter.

City Historian Harry Rigby acted as master of ceremonies and gave a brief history of the city. Kingston was incorporated by an act of the State Legislature on March 29, 1872.

The city's new seal and flag, designed by Rigby, Hurley Artist James Kaman, Alderman John E. Finch (D-Fifth Ward) and former Alderman John P. Heitzman (D-First Ward) was officially presented to Mayor Koenig.

Mayor Lindsay Plans June Visit to Woodstock Area

Ulster Environmental Council...a Step Closer

By JON POWERS

KINGSTON — Formation of an Ulster County Environmental Council moved a step closer to realization Tuesday night as members of the Public Health Committee of the Ulster County Legislature and officials and ecologists from 10 townships met in Kingston.

The meeting was chaired by Melvin Mones (R-City), chairman of the Public Health Committee of the County Legislature, to determine the feasibility of establishing a legal entity on the county level that would have the responsibility for coordinating future environmental programs for the county.

Presently, there exists a number of independent groups that have conducted ecology campaigns in their respective areas. The most active has the Environmental Task Force. Several townships, as well, have appointed Conservation Commissions to conduct environmental projects.

None of the independent groups or town commissions, however, have access to state funds, which is a major advantage of a County Council.

According to Mones, an Ulster County Environmental Council would direct the activities of the diverse ecology groups; establish a general policy to be followed by each organization; act in an advisory capacity for future projects; serve as an educational organization for the people of the county; and act as a conduit for state funds that might become available.

Mones termed Tuesday's meeting "strictly exploratory," and said his committee will meet in April to "evaluate the results of the meeting." But he also indicated that his committee will probably recommend to the County Legislature that the Council be formally established.

"The need is definitely there," said Mones. "There must be some coordinating force. It's an extremely complex matter and a council probably could not attack the whole problem right away, but it's important that a step be taken now."

Mones said his committee has been investigating the possibility of forming a County Environmental Council for more than a year.

Henry L. Diamond, commissioner of the State Department of Environmental Conservation, has recommended that Ulster County join the other 21 counties in New York State that have established environmental councils.

Ellenville Changes Set

By WADE BURKHART

ELLENVILLE

A new Republican majority came in, following the March 21 elections in Ellenville, and at least two Democratic appointments are going out.

Leaving — to no ones surprise including his own — will be Village Attorney Alex J. Nirenberg, and also Urban Renewal Director Gerald Herman.

Nirenberg will be replaced by Ellenville attorney Albert I. Lonstein. Herman will be replaced by the former Interim Urban Renewal Director Frank Walpole.

The Republicans lost control of the village board for the first time in about 15 years in last March's elections. They regained the control by a Republican sweep, trustee candidates Louis Shore and Robert Woodhouse beating Democratic incumbent Trustee David Kramer and candidate Harry Gorman.

The recent election reversed a year-long trend of Republican defeat.

Lonstein said there would be "an orderly transition of government." He said Nirenberg had already begun transferring the files. Lonstein, an Ellenville Republican for 17 years, got his party's nod for the post after former village attorney James J. Murray indicated he was not interested in assuming the position again.

He said he also understood he would become the Urban Renewal attorney as well, the two positions going "part and parcel together."

Herman is being replaced by the man he replaced. Walpole was the interim director when Herman came to the agency as a relocation director about a year and a half ago.

When the Democrats took over the board about a year ago, Walpole submitted his resignation, citing "pressing personal business" as his reason for resigning. Apparently his pressing personal business has been cleared up sufficiently to resume his old position.

According to an authoritative source, Herman and Nirenberg will probably be the only changes made in appointive personnel by the Republicans.

This would leave in office the village engineer, Alex Diachishin. Village Clerk Lillian Finkelstein and Treasurer Galanduk are working on the second year of two-year appointments.

The village manager's position has been vacant since the Democrats forced the resignation of Lawrence Eyres in September.

Mayor Robert Dowling said Tuesday the board would begin setting up interviews "as soon as matters will allow." The new board members will have to familiarize themselves with the applications, and the budget must be attended to.

Dowling said no one "local" had applied for the job.

Eyres was contacted Monday at East Aurora where he is now village manager. Eyres said he had not been formally offered the job, so he had not declined it.

However, most people familiar with the situation believe Eyres to be happy in his present situation, and the chances of him returning to Ellenville are slim.

The Clean Waters Measure... Final House Action Expected

WASHINGTON (AP) — Final House action was expected today on a $24.6-billion water-pollution-control bill aimed at cleaning up the nation's waterways by 1981.

Environmentalists lost ground Tuesday as the House voted down a series of amendments proposed to toughen the legislation. Although the environmental backers were never sure of victory, the losses were more than expected.

One major amendment, setting 1981 as the deadline for industries to adopt the "best available technology" to treat wastes discharged into waterways, was defeated 248 to 140. The amendment would have brought the bill in line with the clean-water rules already passed in the Senate. Its defeat leaves the House bill with 1981 as a goal and not as a deadline. Even that would be subject to a federal study and a further vote by Congress.

The Senate version would not require a second congressional vote. Rep. Sidney Zion, R-Ind., argued that such an inflexible deadline could cost nearly $2 trillion and thousands of jobs. Another major amendment defeated Tuesday would have continued authority for the Environmental Protection Agency to issue waste-discharge permits to industries. It was voted down 251 to 114.

Both House and Senate versions transfer this authority to the states, although the Senate bill would allow EPA veto power over individual approvals.

Both defeated amendments were sponsored by Reps. Henry S. Reuss, D-Wis., and John Dingell, D-Mich.

The main points of the Senate bill would have industries using the best pollution-control devices on discharge systems by 1981, with a total halt to discharges by 1985.

The House measure would authorize the $24.6 billion to be spent on construction grants, research, and loans to small business which cannot afford the cost of cleanup to meet the federal standards.

Two Americans Are Killed

SAIGON (UPI)—A Communist boobytrap exploded in the midst of a 150-man U.S. patrol 31 miles east of Saigon today, killing two Americans and wounding four others.

The U.S. command said the men were members of the 3rd Brigade, 1st Cavalry Division (Airmobile). One other American was killed Monday in a helicopter crash in the Central Highlands, the command said.

To the north near Hue, South Vietnamese infantrymen moved in behind American B52 bombers to attack former U.S. Fire Support Base Veighe, now held by the Communists. A spokesman said 52 guerrillas were killed, 40 of them by the air strikes.

The Saigon command said the bombers swept over the area late Tuesday night and early today to try to soften up the defenses. Troops from the South Vietnamese 1st Infantry Division then stormed the base.

All together, 98 Communists and seven South Vietnamese, including two civilians, were killed in scattered ground and air action throughout South Vietnam.

The Saigon command said the ground fighting near Hue between the artillery-supported government troops and the Communists—believed part of the 6th "Steel" Regiment—raged for eight hours.

The command said a large number of weapons and explosives were captured at the base.

U.S. B52 bombers flew five missions overnight in Kontum province, where battles in the Central Highlands have been steadily growing recently. Other B52 strikes hit Binh Dinh province on the central coast and in Laos and Cambodia, the command said.

South Vietnamese rangers in Kontum province found the bodies of 22 guerrillas killed by air strikes southeast of Tan Canh in the northern part of Kontum province Tuesday, the command said.

Tuesday afternoon, a government paratroop unit caught a Communist platoon eight miles from Fire Base Five in Kontum province and called in artillery and air support, the command said. Sixteen Communists were killed but the South Vietnamese losses were put at two dead and 11 wounded.

Two civilians and one soldier died during mortar and rocket bombardments Tuesday at four different locations around the province, which borders Cambodia and Laos, the Saigon command said.

In Cambodia, a bomb believed placed by a saboteur exploded in Phnom Penh, killing six persons.

Worried Phnom Penh officials also warned residents to arm themselves and dig bunkers under their homes for protection in case of a Communist attack on the city.

For the most part, the residents ignored the warnings and said any trenches they dug would quickly fill with water because of the high water table.

Intelligence reports said a guerrilla regiment was within striking distance of the city and heavy weapons units were not far away.

Earlier, guerrillas bombarded a South Vietnamese base in Cambodia not far from the Vietnam border. There was no report of casualties but 49 South Vietnamese and Cambodian troops were killed in the same area in the previous five days.

At Kampong Trach, a strategic border village just across the Cambodian line, South Vietnamese Rangers killed 13 Communists and lost two of their men.

Israelis Point to the High Turnout

NABLUS, Israeli-occupied Jordan (UPI)—Israeli officials said today the high turnout of Arab voters in municipal elections on the West Bank of the Jordan River proved that balloting could take place under Israeli occupation without outside interference.

An Israeli military government spokesman said 13,725 of the 16,950 eligible Arab voters cast ballots, an 84 per cent turnout. That was about 10 per cent higher than the last elections held under Jordanian rule in 1963.

The West Bank area belonged to Jordan until Israel occupied it in the 1967 war. Its population is mostly Palestinian Arabs.

In a television interview, Defense Minister Moshe Dayan said the large turnout proved that Arab residents under Israeli occupation were prepared to take part in a secret ballot, free of Arab guerrilla and Jordanian pressure.

When King Hussein of Jordan recently presented his plan for a United Arab Kingdom, including a semiautonomous Palestinian state on the West Bank, some Israeli officials interpreted the move as an attempt to disrupt the elections.

Dayan said Israel had taken firm action to see the elections went as planned "to fight terrorism and tell the Jordanian government it was not going to take decisions on what was going to happen in Nabulus."

"What seems important to me is that the elections took place, in secrecy, and that the terrorists did not disrupt them when one bomb, or a few shots, could have disrupted them," Dayan said.

He denied Israel had put pressure on the Arabs to vote or to stand in the elections. But he said Israel did take action when candidates began to withdraw from the elections in Nabulus, the biggest town on the West Bank, under the pressure of threats from Arab guerrillas and Jordan.

"What we did was to demonstrate the meaning of our position, to terror being exerted or pressure being put on by Jordan," he said.

No Crossover to Wallace: GOP

By United Press International

A campaign aide to President Nixon denies any efforts to encourage Republicans to cross party lines in the Wisconsin primary and vote for Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace to embarrass the Democrats.

Francis L. Dale, chairman of the Committee to Re-elect the President, did acknowledge Tuesday, however, that activities on behalf of Nixon in Wisconsin had been cut back. But he said this was because Nixon had no active Republican opposition and was a sure winner.

There has been speculation that Republican strategists would encourage party members to cross over in the April 4 primary to build up the vote for Wallace, who is running as a Democrat. Wisconsin law allows voters to cast ballots for either party in the primary.

"There is no effort on our part to encourage crossover," Dale said.

Rep. Paul N. McCloskey, R-Calif., who received 20 per cent of the GOP vote when he opposed Nixon in the New Hampshire primary, denied Tuesday that he would endorse New York Mayor John V. Lindsay.

McCloskey has stopped active campaigning, citing financial problems. He said he was going to Wisconsin today only to discuss the issues because his name still is on the primary ballot. He said he was not endorsing anyone but if asked would tell questioners that his favorites among the Democrats were Lindsay and Sen. George

S. McGovern, although he would have to give Lindsay the edge "on the basis of his ability, experience and competence."

Tuesday, McGovern got the endorsement of the Rev. Gene Boutillier of Milwaukee, who had been a chief booster of Rep. Shirley Chisholm, D-N.Y. But in Washington, Mrs. Chisholm pointed out she was not campaigning actively in Wisconsin and she said she did not intend to support any other candidate there.

Deadline Passes... No Word

BUENOS AIRES (UPI)—The deadline for the ransom of Fiat auto executive Oberdan Sallustro passed today with no indication whether the leftwing terrorist kidnappers had carried out their promise to execute him.

Sallustro, director of Fiat in Argentina, was snatched from his auto eight days ago by six men and a woman belonging to the Revolutionary Army of the People. The group made seven ransom demands on Fiat and the Argentine government and twice extended a deadline to allow the demands to be met.

Instead, the Argentine government refused to deal with the kidnappers and to release, as they had demanded, 50 imprisoned guerrillas and a number of men being held in jail as a result of a strike against Fiat in Cordoba.

Fiat said it was willing to meet the other ransom demands, including $1 million in school supplies to be handed over to school children, but the government stepped in and said it would not permit the auto company to bow to terrorist blackmail.

Less than an hour before the third—and apparently final—deadline passed at midnight, Fiat spokesman said "the respect."

ITT President Due Back In the Witness Chair

WASHINGTON (AP) — ITT President Harold S. Geneen was due back in the witness chair today as the Senate Judiciary Committee continued hearings on Richard G. Kleindienst's nomination to be attorney general.

Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott said Tuesday the GOP will move soon to halt the hearings, which he called a "frantic exercise in irrelevancy." And, columnist Jack Anderson—whose syndicated stories brought about the hearings—said he, too, would like to see an end to "this circus."

Anderson suggested the Justice Department's settlement of three antitrust cases against International Telephone & Telegraph Corp. was linked with the conglomerate's financial guarantee to help San Diego capture the 1972 Republican National Convention.

Geneen's testimony was suspended March 16 because of other Senate business and to permit a subcommittee to travel to a Denver hospital to question Dita D. Beard. Mrs. Beard is the ITT lobbyist whose alleged memo published by Anderson set off the controversy.

Huddle on Meat Prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — Treasury Secretary John B. Connally called executives of 12 large food chains to a "quiet Texas chat" today over rising meat prices.

The closed-door session represents another move by the Nixon administration to try to stem the tide of recent sharp increases in food prices.

As Connally prepared for the meeting, the Cost of Living Council announced it is moving on four fronts to try to slow food prices, an area drawing more heat than any other part of President Nixon's price-control program.

'Thank You' Day in Albany

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Now there's a little matter of $800 million.

Mayor John V. Lindsay says he needs that amount in additional aid to balance his proposed New York City budget of $9.98 billion for 1972-73.

Lindsay says the state would provide $650 million as the city's share if it adopted the Big Six cities' program for more state support. Another $150 million could come from federal revenue sharing when and if that item gets through Congress.

But Gov. Rockefeller and the Republican legislative leaders have thrown cold water on the notion that the city is going to get anything near what it wants.

Some revenue package is expected to emerge when the legislature returns April 10 from its Easter-Passover recess. The mayor might well consider it a success if he does as well as he did Tuesday when Rockefeller's $7.87 billion was approved.

In two major victories for the city, the legislature added money for the City University (CUNY) and restored funds for school drug prevention programs.

"This is 'thank you' day in Albany," CUNY Chancellor Robert J. Kibbee told newsmen, explaining that he had journeyed here to thank the legislative leaders.

The state budget included $17.5 million more for the university than Rockefeller originally requested and another $2 million more for disadvantaged students in the Search for Education, Elevation and Knowledge (SEEEK) program.

"It's obviously going to save free tuition for another year," said Kibbee, who also said the open admissions program could continue to function.

CUNY sought a rise from its current budget of $382 million to $455 million. With the senior colleges' portion split 50-50 between city and state, Kibbee wanted more than $30 million in new money from each.

The support of a diversified lobby of civic groups helped Democrats obtain the sizable addition to the state's current $156 million contribution to CUNY's budget. Kibbee said he was confident Lindsay would come up with all the new city money he had requested.

"It's certainly not going to allow us to operate in a plush way," the chancellor remarked, "but we never intended to operate in a plush way."

The other success for Lindsay and the Democrats was the inclusion of $14 million for school anti-drug programs in the budget, $12 million pegged for New York City.

A $23.5 million item for these programs in the current budget was dropped by Rockefeller, setting off loud protests.

Assembly Minority Leader Stanley Steingut was also in a good mood, satisfied that in exchange for Democratic votes on the governor's tax package in January and on the budget, the Republicans had kept their promises not to cut key programs and had come up with the added money.

He said the bargaining between the majority and the minority was a happy change from "the agony of past years when doors were closed" to the Democrats.

As for the additional revenue for general purposes being sought by the city, Richard A. Brown, Lindsay's Albany lobbyist, pointed to last year's developments.

VISITING PERIOD — West Berliners enter Communist East Germany at the Sonnenallee Checkpoint early today as Communist border guards open the gate at the start of a seven-day visiting period. It is the first time westerners have been allowed into East Berlin in six years and the first time in 20 years that they will be allowed to visit other East German cities. Between 400,000 and 750,000 West Berliners are expected to cross the Berlin Wall during the week. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

SUNY Building Slowdown

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — A major slowdown in State University construction has been ordered by the legislature in the next fiscal year.

Particularly affected is the Amherst campus of the State University unit at Buffalo. Construction on this campus will halt, because of the refusal of the legislature to authorize $35 million in building funds.

The State University Colleges at Brockport, Purchase and Delhi will not be permitted to begin construction of $12.3 million in new buildings.

The action was taken Tuesday when the legislature approved a $7.87-billion budget for the fiscal year beginning April 1, Saturday.

The legislature, in a separate bill, authorized the State University system to spend $500 million in the next fiscal year. Of this amount, $417 million will be provided by the state and $83 million by the university.

No changes were made in the governor's proposed budget plan regarding:

—Campus schools, Rockefeller said in his budget message: "The university is now studying the future of the campus schools which are operated by most of the colleges and is expected to make recommendations on new contractual arrangements between the local school districts and the colleges, or on phasing the campus schools out. This proposal may lead to substantial changes in the status of campus schools and the state's cost of these schools."

—An elimination of funds for the administration of a new college in the Rome-Utica area. The allocation was reduced from $624,000 this year to $175,000.

—The student-faculty ratio on campuses. There will be more students on a college campus per faculty member.

Redistricting Signed

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Lt. Gov. Malcolm Wilson Tuesday signed into law a congressional redistricting bill giving the state 39 districts, two fewer than now.

Wilson, acting in the absence of the vacationing Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, enacted the bill Tuesday with two chapter amendments, one of which was passed hours before he signed the measure.

The Republican-drawn plan sub divides the district of Rep. Bella Abzug of Manhattan and makes major changes in about half of the other districts. Mrs. Abzug has announced she will oppose her fellow Democrat, William R. Ryan, in a primary.

Two other congressmen also will be eliminated as Reps. James Scheuer and Jonathan Bingham, both Democrats, live in the same Bronx district and Republican Seymour Halpern of Queens and Democrat Lester Wolf of Kensington will face each other in a second merged district.

Tuesday's chapter amendment was designed to make a Bronx district more likely to nominate and elect a Puerto Rican congressman. Rep. Herman Badillo is expected to seek reelection in the district.

New York's failure to keep pace with the rest of the nation in population growth cost the state two seats in Congress. In all, three districts were combined with others, with one new district being created in Suffolk and Nassau counties.

Rockefeller is vacationing in the Virgin Islands.

Upstate congressmen were generally strengthened by the remap.

Rep. Alexander Pirnie, R-New Hartford, has announced he will retire rather than seek a term in a district including several new counties.

Strike Is CSEA Threat By Saturday

NEW YORK (AP) — The State Civil Service Employees Association has threatened to strike Saturday if the state does not come up with a "meaningful contract offer" before the current contract expires at midnight Friday.

Negotiators for the CSEA which represents 140,000 state professional, administrative, operational and institutional workers, meanwhile continued bargaining talks in Albany.

Theodore Wenzl, president of the CSEA, reportedly was seeking to buy radio time Friday night for a last minute report to union members on the status of the negotiations.

The threatened strike could close office buildings and race tracks, curtail issuance of automobile license plates and collection of taxes and leave patients in state mental institutions and hospitals untended.

"We have families and we can't survive in the metropolitan area on an average salary of $6,000 a year," Ronnie Smith, a CSEA negotiator said Tuesday.

The union is seeking a 15 per cent salary hike over two years for the state workers, most of whom now earn $6,000 to $8,000 a year.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, MARCH 29, 1972

WASHINGTON — Hubert H. Humphrey's confidential political papers suggest that the showdown for the Democratic presidential nomination will be fought in California, Michigan, Ohio and Pennsylvania.

This, at least, is the view of his chief political scout, the veteran Ken O'Donnell, who once belonged to the late President John F. Kennedy's tight, little braintrust.

In a memo to Humphrey stamped "Personal and Confidential," O'Donnell contends: "The four big ones are Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan and California. These are the states which determine national elections, and beating Muskie in these states will determine the nomination. "And it is right here — in these states — that your strength with labor will tell . . . Your strength in the labor movement is rapidly consolidating and will be the determining factor in the big industrial states." O'Donnell also believes that President Nixon can be beaten. "Despite Nixon's favorable rating at this time with the public, and occasional short-time recoveries, his polls show a steady, long-term deterioration," O'Donnell argues. "There is no reason to expect that he can reverse such a three-year trend. He will be weaker, not stronger, by next fall."

"I would continue to concentrate my fire on him. He is the target," O'Donnell urges Humphrey. "You have the basic issue — which is jobs and inflation — the two problems that he is making no progress solving."

Wisconsin Worry

In another internal memo, Humphrey urges his campaign managers not to be "deluded" by favorable soundings in Wisconsin.

"We did well in Florida . . ." writes Humphrey. "The task in Wisconsin will be much more difficult."

"Wisconsin is not 'Humphrey territory.' In spite of what you may be telling the press or the press may be telling its readers, Wisconsin is an independent state with independent voters."

"They resent anybody taking the state for granted, particularly someone from Minnesota. It's also a state where there traditionally has been a large Republican crossover in the primaries . . ."

"I believe that Ed Muskie has done very effective work and, as of this moment, is strongly in the lead in the seventh congressional district around Wausau."

"(George) McGovern will be very strong in the agricultural part of western Wisconsin, and I believe the third and tenth congressional districts will be hard fought by him and that he may very well, as of this moment, be in the lead in both of those districts."

"The sixth and eighth congressional districts strike me as strong Muskie, as well as Wallace territory."

"Our best prospects are in the industrial areas, the first, fourth and fifth congressional districts around the Milwaukee, Racine, Kenosha areas. But here we've got to understand that Ed Muskie will be very strong. There is a heavy Polish-American constituency in that area . . ."

"I don't want to sound pessimistic, and I don't believe in pessimism, but it's important we all be realistic . . . I don't care what the press says about our chances, it's important that we in our own political organization understand the facts."

Guard Duty

As the runt of the military litter, the Coast Guard has only one reservist on Capitol Hill. He is Sen. Claiborne Pell, the aristocratic Democrat from Rhode Island.

Until recently, there was also a Coast Guard man on the House side. He was Charles E. Chamberlain, a Republican from Michigan and a former captain in the Coast Guard reserve.

Chamberlain's military record, which we have obtained, shows how far the armed services will go to keep their Capitol Hill brass hats happy.

On May 5, 1966, Chamberlain rode down to the Potomac River and watched a change-of-command ceremony aboard a Coast Guard cutter. He was awarded promotion and retirement credits for his efforts.

Later that summer, Chamberlain toured resort cities along the Atlantic coast from Massachusetts to Virginia. He inspected six Coast Guard stations along the way and was awarded six reserve points.

On 19 occasions last year, Chamberlain hopped a taxi to the Pentagon for Navy briefings. He was credited with 19 points.

Chamberlain also got official credits for presenting awards, attending NATO meetings and "assisting with public relations project."

Chamberlain finally retired from the active reserve last November. He is still a congressman, however, and he is still doing what he always did — he is protecting the Coast Guard, if not the coast.

The Matter With Busing

WASHINGTON — There is more to busing than integration.

John, my 7-year-old son, is carried three hours each day for school. Not to achieve racial balance. But because he is deaf, and for practical reasons the county program for these youngsters is at one central school.

For three hours each day he is belted in and must sit quietly in one seat. For him and his companions on the bus, and for the driver, this is a severe emotional strain, though the children on my son's bus are fortunate in having a woman driver of understanding and great good humor. But she, as a mother herself, is worried at what these long restrained rides do to the children.

But that is not all. These children live too far away from each other to be invited to birthday parties or to play together in the afternoon. My son can't walk over to their yards casually and ask Mary or George or Jim to come out and play. My son asks to be driven to their homes, but the time required is too great, except on rare occasions.

Even worse, this long-range busing eliminates most of that time for companionship, cycling, baseball, tree climbing and playing house essential for children. By the time my son arrives home he is quite often so tired from the journey that on his own accord he drifts off to his bedroom and naps until dinner, to be awakened only long enough to eat and get himself undressed for his night's sleep.

This is no way for a child to live.

The men and women in charge of this program are aware of the problems. They are, in fact, making every effort to find a solution — one that would put these children in schools in their own neighborhood.

They are working to this change, even though they know that because of the high degree of specialization required for teaching these boys and girls, the decentralization of this effort for the relatively limited numbers of students involved, raises some very difficult management and finance problems.

But these teachers believe that the emotional strain of long-range busing is just too great. They also perceive the very great added benefit in having these boys and girls attend school in their own neighborhoods — with the children they play with after school and whose parents in many cases know each other. This gives the stability and confidence which young children seem to require in such great amounts.

As noted above, none of this has anything to do with race. Because of my son's experience, this reporter has talked to a great many parents from various parts of this country, numbers of whom have had some experience with extensive busing for one reason or another — some to achieve racial balance, some to escape racial balance, some because they live in isolated areas and some because they have wanted their children to attend special private school of quality.

It is this writer's studied belief after these talks that for young children the effects of long-range busing are so serious that to be justified the ends to be achieved would have to be essential, certain and unattainable by any other means.

If we as the people are so bankrupt in our imagination and our ingenuity that we can think of no better way than busing to achieve the educational rights of all of our citizens regardless of color, then I despair.

The Recidivists of Hawaii

The big bare bungalows huddle together off Laumaka Street, under the thunder of the silver birds leaving Honolulu International Airport. All of it is a prison, but there are no bars, no gates, no keepers, no warden. A Japanese counselor lives in a small neat house. He bows with his hands hanging in front of his shins.

If you visit him, you leave your shoes on the steps. In the big wooden house across the way, 15 first offenders live. There are beds, throw rugs, a kitchen with beer in the refrigerator, a color TV set.

The prisoners are self-governing. They engineer their own discipline. Every night of the year, before dinner, the 15 men in each building must sit for a rap session lasting one hour. Each of the prisoners must discuss his personal problems freely. If he wants to take a job, go to college, see his wife, he must have the unanimous permission of his peers.

Halfway House is unusual. It rehabilitates, as Alcoholics Anonymous does. The burglar tells what he stole, where he stole and why. His peers ask many personal questions. They try to help him to locate his motivation toward crime. Understanding is more than half the battle.

A shoplifter with the face of a freckled boy and the hair of a young lion had a speech impediment. All he could do, he said, was drive a truck. He had little formal education but he was good at trucks. The 14 prisoners he lives with requested the Japanese counselor to help him get a job driving a truck.

Freckles got the job. He signed the agreement common to all—that he must put part of his earnings into a savings account. Within six weeks, his speech impediment grew worse. His employer grew using him three hours one day, 12 the next, and none the third.

At the 5:30 rap session, a motion was made to order him to quit the job. The vote was unanimous and immediate.

Freckles wept. His friends had taken away the one thing he could do. They asked the counselor to put him in a speech school. All prisoners at Halfway House are hit with maximum penalties for their crimes. Freckles had four years to go.

Within 10 months, his speech impediment had practically disappeared. He took a crash course for a "white-collar job, and got it. He is making good. The system doesn't always work. The failures are rare. A man leaves for work, meets his woman, and she convinces that love is all. He runs away.

But it's like stealing a car on a small island. Where do you hide it? When he is found, he goes to Oahu State Prison and completes his term behind cold iron bars. I sat at a table with Blaine Alexander, 29. With us was Dr. Lester Deiser, psychiatrist.

You like Blaine Alexander at once. He has black hair, big brown eyes, a dooskin personality, and intelligence. Mr. A. is the victim of the Peter Principle. When a man is good at a job, the American system is to promote him out of it into something where he is inefficient.

"People call this Halfway House," he said. "It isn't. It's Hawaii's Conditional Release Center. Six years ago, everybody found guilty in this state went to prison under harsh terms. Around 1966, the police, the courts, the probation system, the parole board, the prisons, got together and asked: 'What are we doing wrong? Why do we get so many repeaters (recidivists)?"

The legislature and the governor changed the system. The repeaters go to prison. Serious crimes of a nonviolent nature are placed on long probation right out of court. The parole board can, under favorable circumstances, reduce a 20-year sentence to 18 months.

I wrote the story of Hawaii's new penal system for "World Book Encyclopedia." There is much more to it than Blaine Alexander. But Mr. A. was promoted too swiftly, married carelessly, began to drink, and figured a means of getting a Blue Cross computer to write out claim checks in his name.

He was caught, as his intelligence told him he would. On the day of arrest, his wife left him and took the baby back to the mainland. The judge said he would appoint counsel. Blaine declined. "I'm guilty," he said. "I figure I cashed about $10,000 in claim checks." Dr. Keiser listened, making little notes. Blaine was sentenced to a long term at Halfway House.

"Did you go back to school?" Keiser said. Alexander nodded. "I not only majored in sociology, but lectured my classmates on my crimes — the ego which prompts a man to think that he is smarter than the law."

Mainland U.S. has over 30 per cent crime repeaters. Hawaii, at last count, has 65.1 per cent. Blaine Alexander gained his freedom. The next week he went back to prison — as the first paid counselor

Paltz Program Ending in May

A reading study involving 18 selected second grade students at the New Paltz Campus School, begun in February, will end in May of this year.

Drive Tops $7,000 for Vet Memorial

The study, designed by Mrs. Mary Jane Jewett and Mrs. Shirley Zeitlin of the Child Study Center at the Campus School, involves faculty members Mrs. Bonne Sue Adams, Mrs. Bailey Kennedy, Miss Vaughan Morse, and Karl Tremmel, along with six tutors from classes taught by Dr. Dorothy Hayes and Dr. Robert Presbie at the pupils by the six tutors under the supervision of Mrs. Jewett and Dr. Presbie, and motor activities are taught by other students under the direction of Thomas Sartori.

Three matched groups of children receive conventional remediation, behavior modification, and regular classroom instruction, and all 18 children receive 20 minutes of motor activities instruction daily.

The children in the study were referred to the Child Study Center during the first semester for diagnosis of their reading difficulties. Individual diagnostic profiles were developed and formed the basis for individual reading programs prescribed for each pupil.

A meeting was held in January to explain the study to the parents of the children involved, and several evening meetings are planned before the project ends in May, according to Joseph Bongo, principal of the Campus School. The next meeting is scheduled today at the Campus School.

An evaluation will be made in May, involving a post-test to measure reading gains along with evaluations from parents and teachers regarding children's feelings about reading.

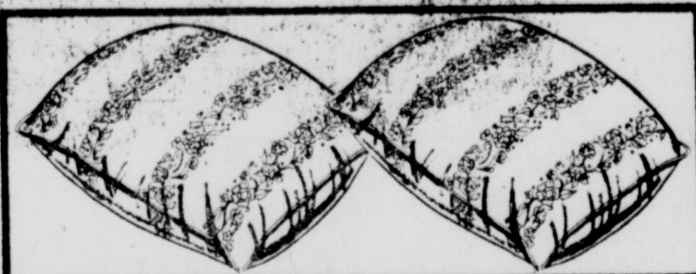

Should anyone still wish to contribute towards the completion of the project, they may do so by mailing their contribution to: Veterans Memorial Site Fund, 18 W. O'Reilly Street, Kingston, or it may be left at the Kingston Police Department with Sgt. Hanley.

Chaplain Denies Charges, Cites Certain 'Tendencies'

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI)—Navy chaplain Andrew F. Jensen, denying charges of adultery with two officers' wives, said Tuesday that one of the women had revealed "certain lesbian" tendencies during marriage counseling. "I didn't feel I was equipped to handle these problems," Jensen testified before a court martial board. He said he referred Mary Ann Curran to a

Kingston Man Resentenced

KINGSTON—Ernest Charles Bodie, 25, of Kingston, sentenced in 1968 to an indeterminate term of up to 10 years, was resentenced in Ulster County Court Monday to a seven-year term on the original charge of attempted rape. A "model" prisoner at Green Haven Prison, Bodie is already out on parole having been released in February of this year. The effect of the resentencing before Acting County Judge Benjamin Newberg is the reduction of the length of his parole from 10 to seven years. While in prison, Bodie brought a coram nobis proceeding service. Jensen, 43, is being tried on charges of conduct unbecoming an officer on the basis of accusations that he had sexual relations with Mrs. Curran, 24, and Lora Gudbranson, 40. Jensen denied each of 18 separate incidents in which Mrs. Curran said she was intimate with him in such places as her apartment and various motels. He was expected to deny similar accusations by Mrs. Gudbranson when he resumed testifying today.

On nearly every date, Jensen gave his explanation for the times Mrs. Curran testified they were together. He readily conceded he stayed at motels on several occasions, but he said this was to get away from the pressures of his work, not to carry on an affair. "Our phone rang constantly," recalled Jensen. "The chapel was practically in our backyard. The tempo—the pace we had to keep—was fierce."

Jensen testified that a doctor suggested he get away to a motel for a few hours to ease the pressures.

Jensen testified his relationship with Mrs. Curran was "strictly professional" in the role of marriage counselor and minister.

He said he referred the Currans to a professional marriage counseling service when Mrs. Curran told him she was transferring her affection for a man with whom she had had an earlier affair, to an unnamed Jacksonville man.

"In addition, she had revealed to me certain lesbian conditions and I didn't feel I was equipped to handle these problems," Jensen said.

But he said he agreed to serve as a "go-between" for the Currans during a three-month separation from August until November, 1970.

Probe Team Conducts Bus Tragedy Re-enactment

CONGERS, N.Y. (UPI)—A federal investigating team will conduct a re-enactment today of an accident at an unguarded railroad crossing which killed four teenage students.

Jay Golden, a member of the three-man National Transportation Board panel, said a freight train but no other vehicle would be used in the test designed to check visibility and audibility at the scene. Golden said test showed no mechanical failure of the crowded school bus when it collided with the train.

The accident Friday involved a freight train and the bus carrying students to Nyack High School. Beside the four dead, 35 other students were injured in the crash. Seven students are in critical condition. Nine have been discharged since the crash.

Rockland County District Attorney Robert Meehan said preliminary inquiries indicated that the bus driver, moonlighting New York City fireman Joseph Larkin, did not stop at the crossing as required by law. Meehan said he would present evidence in the accident to a grand jury.

Area Robbery Suspect Has Adjournment

KINGSTON—A 20-year-old Kingston man charged with robbery first degree stemming from a grocery store holdup in Eddyville, reappeared today before Special City Judge George A. Beck and received an adjournment until Friday for a preliminary hearing.

William Daniel Dibble, of 203 Greenhill Avenue, was remanded to the county jail in lieu of $10,000 bail. He was arrested Monday night. Dibble is specifically charged with robbing Cornelius Salata in the latter's grocery store on Route 213 on the night of March 9.

State Police said Dibble allegedly walked into the store carrying what authorities described as a small handgun that was partly wrapped in a piece of cloth and demanded money from Salata. The defendant allegedly made off with about $65.

Senior BCI Investigator Michael Lisman of the Hurley State Police, who directed a month long investigation of armed robberies in the city and Town of Ulster with Police Chief Julius Glassman and detectives, said Dibble has been questioned about other holdups in recent weeks.

At arraignment in City Court, Dibble entered a plea of innocent.

License Deadline Extended

KINGSTON—All licenses and registrations scheduled to expire March 31 will be extended to midnight, April 7, according to Albert Spada, County Clerk, Department of Motor Vehicles.

Spada said that the extension has been granted due to the fact that both Passover and Easter seasons coincide at the end of the month.

Spada said he is hopeful that this will aid in alleviating some of the end of the month rush in the issuing offices, particularly in view of the fact that available staff will be reduced due to religious services.

KINGSTON—The Kingston Human Rights Commission met Tuesday to review complaints concerning Perennial Homes off Maple Street in the Broadway East Urban Renewal Project, across the street from Rondout Gardens.

Trout Contest Is Preserved

RHINEBECK program, now being administered by the town, be restructured to include diverse activities such as the fishing contest and give them a broader and more organized base.

Thus, spearheaded by Robert Anderson, proprietor of the Beekman Armoury sporting goods store, a group of citizens have decided to enlist the aid of organizations to keep the tradition going.

The schedule calls for stocking the kill April 8. And the traditional opening day breakfast will be held at the Rhinebeck American Legion Hall April 9.

This caused some problems with property owners. The Landsman Kill is bordered on both sides by private property, and the only access to fish was from these slopes. Several property owners were dismayed by the ever-increasing influx of young fishermen.

And Buss Van Keuren, who had performed the lion's share of organizing the contest for its entire history along with the Landsman Kill Stocking Club, had requested that the chores be handled by someone else in the future.

Town Supervisor William Allen suggested recently that the joint town-village recreation

The organization's training, teaching, medical, paramedical, and ancillary staffs would be available to provide this assistance and to coordinate with the family's physician.

Ulster Enrollment Up 35 Per Cent

STONE RIDGE, Applications to attend the fall term at Ulster County Community College are running 35 per cent ahead of last year's pace, according to a report given by Dean of Students David Bartlett at Tuesday's meeting of the UCCC Board of Trustees.

Bartlett reported that as of March 20, 922 persons had submitted applications to attend UCCC during the 1972 fall semester, an increase of 241 at the same time in 1971. Bartlett also reported that there have been 81 applications for the two-year nursing program at UCCC, compared to 31 a year ago.

Mrs. Florence Irwin, chairwoman of the nursing education department, reported that the number of nursing students enrolled at UCCC has increased by 74 per cent from the fall of 1968. She said that 19 students graduated from the nursing program in 1970, and that 35 graduates are expected this June.

Enrollment at UCCC has increased steadily since its founding, and it is reported that school officials anticipate an enrollment increase in September, as well.

Watson Claims Anderson Charge Exaggerated

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Arthur K. Watson Tuesday said that charges by columnist Jack Anderson that he got "gloriously drunk" on a transatlantic flight were exaggerated.

Watson, the U.S. ambassador to France who was named by President Nixon as the contact for further discussions with China, conceded he was "exceedingly and unintentionally rude" to the crew of the Pan American jet on the flight March 9 from London to New York.

He attributed his conduct to spending an entire night without sleep, two ineffective sleeping pills and "several drinks." But he denied that he was intoxicated and offered to produce witnesses to prove it.

Watson stated his case in a letter to Rep. Wayne Hays, D-Ohio, chairman of the House Foreign Affairs subcommittee. Hays, who had asked for an explanation from Watson, said he did not see any purpose in holding public hearings and had decided after reading Watson's explanation to "treat it as a one time aberration."

But Hays warned that while he would give Watson "a second chance," he would not tolerate another such incident. Hays said he was not a China expert but he did know that the Chinese traditionally "don't look very kindly" on drunken behavior. He said he could not verify a supposed CIA report contending that the Chinese reaction was "not very good."

Anderson wrote that Watson on the flight "kept shouting for more Scotch, grabbing the stewardesses and trying to stuff money down the fronts of their blouses, finally passing out, his arms and legs sprawled across the first class lounge."

In his letter, Watson wrote that Anderson "exaggerated what actually occurred."

"I was quite tired and, to my regret, irritable," Watson said, adding that "harsh words indeed were exchanged between me and the crew."

Watson said he deeply regretted the incident and he assured Hays "it will not occur again." He was flying to the United States to confer with Nixon about his new responsibilities.

Passover Holiday Marks Freedom

KINGSTON The Festival of Passover begins tonight for the Jewish people and will be celebrated through April 6.

Conservative and Orthodox Jews celebrate the first days of the holiday this year on Thursday and Friday, March 30 and 31 and the last days on Wednesday and Thursday April 5 and 6. The holiday commemorates the historic events leading to the nationhood of the people of Israel and the beginning of the monotheistic faith adopted by them approximately 3,200 years ago.

Mayor Francis R. Koenig on behalf of the City of Kingston has extended best wishes for a most happy and joyous Passover to the Jewish community.

Dr. Harry Z. Schechtman, rabbi of Congregation Ahavath Israel, recounts the historic events which are the basis of the observance of Passover, the Festival of Freedom.

At that time the Children of Israel had been enslaved by the Egyptians for more than 200 years. They were tortured by Pharaoh's taskmasters, and suffered untold cruelties, until they reminded themselves of the God of their fathers, and called upon Him for salvation.

The great emancipator, Moses, came to their aid, and when Pharaoh refused to free them, ten plagues were visited upon him and his people. When the tenth plague, which was the slaying of the first born of the Egyptians, was about to break out, the Israelites were ordered to sacrifice a lamb, and smear blood of the lamb on the doorposts of their houses, so that the Angel of Death would pass over their houses in his mission to fulfill the plague.

The sacrifice was to be used for the Feast of the Passover, called in Hebrew, Pesach, and was known as the Paschal lamb, which was to be eaten on the eve of the 15th day of the Hebrew month of Nissan. On that night in the midst of their feast, the Israelites were hurried out of Egypt, because Pharaoh feared for his own life when he saw all the first-born of the Egyptians slain.

Not having time to wait for the dough of the bread to rise, the Israelites carried the unleavened flat dough on their shoulders in their exodus from Egypt. This flat dough was called Matzos, and because it was unleavened, the law in the observance of the Passover was made that no leavened foods were to be eaten or kept in the homes during the holiday.

After a three day march in the desert, which brought the Israelites to the Red Sea, they looked back to see Pharaoh and his hordes pursuing them. They began to cry out to God and to Moses for fear that they would be killed by their pursuers, and a miracle occurred that the sea split asunder and the Israelites crossed over on dry land. As the Egyptians followed them into the sea, the waters returned and drowned them. Having crossed over on the other side, and seeing the miracle that had been wrought, the freed slaves sang a song of praise to their Savior.

Thus the story of Passover is told as a narration of the first attempt of a people to free themselves from the yoke of a tyrant and from slavery. A Seder, or an order of service, is held around a festive table laden with ritualistic foods symbolic of the Passover story, in all Jewish homes on the first two nights by the Conservative and Orthodox Jews, and the first night by the Reform. At his Seder the story of freedom is reviewed and special attention is given to the children to make them understand the importance of the lesson of the Passover.

Religious services are held in the synagogues. At Congregation Ahavath Israel, at 100 Lucas Avenue, religious services will be held on Wednesday and Thursday 6:30 p.m., Friday 8 p.m. and Thursday and Friday at 9:30 a.m., in observance of the first two days of the holiday.

The last days will be observed by services held on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, April 4 and 5, at 6:30 p.m., and Wednesday and Thursday mornings, April 5 and 6, at 9:30 a.m.

Yizkor (Memorial Services) will be conducted on Thursday morning, April 6, at 11 a.m.

Youth and Children Services will be held every holiday morning at 10 a.m. The services will be conducted by Rabbi Schechtman, assisted in the liturgy by Cantor Michael Perlshtein.

Passover services will be conducted at Congregation Agudas Achim, 254 Lucas Avenue tonight 6:10 p.m., Thursday and Friday 8:30 a.m. and 6:10 p.m., Shabbat services will be at 8:30 and 6:10 p.m., also, Rabbi Howard Gershon and Cantor Herman Slomovits will officiate.

Yom Tov candles will be lighted tonight 5:58; Thursday 6:58 and Friday 6 p.m.

Services for the concluding days of Passover will be Tuesday 6:15 p.m.; Wednesday April 5, and Thursday, April 6, at 8:30 a.m. and 6:15 p.m.

Yizkor service will be at 10 a.m.

17 Have Entered Ulster Pageant

To be eligible, a contestant must be between the ages of 18 and 28, never married, and either residing in or attending school in Ulster or Greene Counties.

So far, there are five prospective contestants from Kingston, two from Lake Katrine and one each from Saugerties, Gardiner, Catskill, Zena, Ulster Park, Shokan, West Shokan, Stony Point, West Hurley and Woodstock.

Supervisor Submits Resolution

GARDINER — Gardiner Town Supervisor George Majestic has submitted a resolution to the Gardiner Town Board calling for zoning protection of areas adjacent to Route 299 and Routes 44-55. Majestic has forwarded the resolution to the town boards of Wawarsing, Shawangunk, Rochester and New Paltz, asking their approval.

The resolution also calls for the opening up of Minnewaska State Park for hiking, bicycling, horseback riding, swimming, camping, snowmobiling and that it be preserved and used as needed with proper planning for all.

Majestic calls on towns along Route 299 to pass laws restricting zoning on the road so that it can "remain a scenic road." He also asks that Routes 44-45 in both directions where it junctions with Route 299 be similarly protected.

Gardiner Mobile Home Hearing April 18

The Town of Gardiner Planning Board expects to have trailer and mobile home ordinances ready for consideration by July 31 and will hold hearings on April 18 to consider them.

Preliminary work on the proposed ordinances has been going on for the past year, it was announced at Tuesday night's planning board meeting. The April 18 hearings will be held in conjunction with the town board meeting in the GARDINER Firehouse beginning at 8 p.m. The town is now operating under a stopgap ordinance adopted to control the installation of mobile homes until permanent legislation can be enacted. The planning board has updated the present ordinance and will propose separate ordinances to distinguish between camping type trailers and mobile homes to be installed as residences. Robert Spellman submitted revised plans for his subdivision on Hasbrouck Road. Temporary chairman Jerry Bart said that the planning board had received a letter from the Ulster County Board of Health giving particulars on sewage and water systems and asking that houses be limited to a maximum of three bedrooms on one-acre lots.

James Doherty told the board he was willing to sign a bond guaranteeing completion of roads at his four-house subdivision on Military Lane. He was directed to submit a map showing location of the road and lot dimensions before Board of Health approval could be asked. In reply to a question from the board Doherty said one house is completed now and two more will be completed within a year. He was told that if the town board approves the subdivision now it will not be affected by later zoning changes. Public hearings to consider approval of the Spellman and Doherty subdivisions will also be held at the April 18 meeting.

Nurses Attend Session

SAUGERTIES
A recent meeting of the Saugerties Public Health Committee was held at the home of Mrs. Norman Nitschke with fourteen members and two public health nurses attending.

It was announced that a lawn sale will be held on Saturday, May 12 at the lot on Bridge Street next to the Empire Market. In case of rain the sale will take place on the following Saturday, May 20. Any contributions for this sale may be given to Mrs. Sheldon Fuller at 94 Main Street.

A report was given by Mrs. Nitschke in regards to the proposed 120 Bed Eden Park Nursing Home to be built at the end of Spaulding Lane. The Nursing Home is to be ready May 1973. There is also the possibility of office space for two doctors.

The members were instructed by the public health nurses as to the procedure followed at the Well-Baby Clinic and the Immunization Clinic for children aged three months through high school age and the child must be invited to come. For information the Public Health Office in Saugerties may be called between 9 and 10 a.m. and 4 and 5 p.m. daily. The Well-Baby Clinic is also by invitation.

The next meeting will be held March 23 at the home of Mrs. Joseph Sullivan at 11 Esopus Drive.

Class Presents Fable

SAUGERTIES
"The Lion and the Mouse" was recently presented at the Grant D. Morse School by the first grade class of Mrs. Linda Hanson. The play, one of Aesop's Fables, concerns a lion who learns the hard way, that all animals must be kind to each other.

The cast included Michael Grossi, Sheila Garrison, Cynthia Isgro, Julie Hommel, Jeffrey Dodig, Sondra Young, Donald Todd, Billy Henkel, Edward Essig and Andrea Scheffel.

The announcer was Darlene Shooki and the scene change was announced by Mary Twittler. The entire class sang a song at the end of the program directed by Kenneth Baumgartner, vocal music teacher.

Group Views Special Program

SAUGERTIES
Robert D. Mercer, research associate at Dudley Observatory in Albany, presented a special program to the fourth, fifth and sixth graders of the Grant D. Morse School recently.

Mercer gave some background information on the solar system but his major emphasis was on the Apollo Lunar Flight scheduled for April 16.

Arrangements for Mercer's visit were made through Miss Karen Jacobs who works with him two days each week. Miss Jacobs is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Jacobs, Washington Avenue, Saugerties.

Field Trip

The fourth grade class of Mrs. Juanita Anthony took a field trip to the Saugerties Public Library to view the boat display. The boats on exhibit traveled on the Hudson River between Saugerties and Catskill, New York during the period 1890 to very recent years. The Morse School class of 30 students were accompanied by Mrs. William Pangerc and their teacher. According to Mrs. Anthony, the trip was very worthwhile since various means of early transportation have been studied in the reading and social studies units this school year.

Meeting Held

SAUGERTIES
The first Ladies Aid Auxiliary of the Cedar Grove Fire Company was formed at a recent meeting held at the firehouse. Janice Dengler was elected president. Installation of new officers will take place at the next meeting. All future meetings will be held on the fourth Monday of each month at 8 p.m. The auxiliary's first project will be purchasing dishes and utensils for the kitchen.

Woodstock Area News

Zena Group Meets

WOODSTOCK
Woodstock Fire Company 4 held its monthly meeting at the Firehouse in Zena recently with President William Hung appointing a committee for the annual bazaar. It includes Alfred Bruckert, chairman; Frank Almquist and Eugene Phillips. More members will be appointed in the near future. The Bazaar is the major fund raising event of the year for the fire department and is usually held in July.

Chief Duncan Wilson's report included a reminder to all members to use proper call letters when using the radios. Chief Wilson also explained correct usage of the blue lights that volunteer firemen may install on their private vehicles.

Club Has Guest

WOODSTOCK
County Legislator, William West of Woodstock was the guest speaker at the Woodstock Republican Club's March Meeting at Deane's, speaking on the current and future direction of the Ulster County Legislature.

West told of Ulster's budget of almost $30 million and a work force of 850. He discussed the breakdown of the 33 legislators into 22 standing committees. West explained that the legislature has been busy the last few months indoctrinating new legislators to the procedures of the lawmaking body.

Legislator West discussed many projects currently underway in the county such as the new jail, the infirmary and labor negotiations with the CSEA. He predicted that resolution of the proposed County Charter would be a key item on the legislative agenda for 1972.

Installation of officers for 1972 took place, proposed new bylaws were read and discussion of future programs for the Club was held. Announcement of the annual spring dance was made by Chairman Norman Fowler. The dinner-dance is planned for May 13 at a place to be announced.

The next meeting of the Republican Club will be April 20. The speaker for the evening will be Herbert Wallace from the Attorney General's office speaking on consumer protection.

Board Makes Arts Council Appointment

WOODSTOCK
Woodstock Supervisor Vern May announced today that the Woodstock Town Board has appointed Richard Jeffery of De Val Road, Woodstock as chairman of the recently formed Civic Arts Council. The council is a seven-member committee approved at a recent meeting of the town board. The council will suggest ways in which to maintain the art colony atmosphere in Woodstock.

May said that the Town Board felt Jeffery to be excellent leader for the Council. He is an artist and has lived in Woodstock since 1946. He graduated from Syracuse University after majoring in Fine Arts.

After coming to Woodstock, he taught adult education art classes in Kingston and Woodstock for 10 years. He is currently a trustee of Overlook Methodist Church.

Jeffery stated that his acceptance was due to a keen "self-interest in the appearance and facilities of the town." He sees the major job of the council as one of persuasion. He states, "Our job will be to suggest and persuade new and established businesses ways in which they might improve their facilities or services in keeping with the Woodstock theme. However, don't misunderstand," he says, "no one has any intentions of forcing a style on all the businesses. There will still be plenty of room for individuality within the Woodstock theme."

CANCER SERVICES — Shown are Mrs. Walter Yeager and Dr. Glenn D. Van Gaasbeek, the co-chairmen of the Ulster County Unit of the American Cancer Society's Service and Rehabilitation Committee. One of the many services of their committee is the Mastectomy Rehabilitation Service. Consultation on available mastectomy prostheses will be held the first Monday of each month, from 12:30 to 4 p. m., at the Ulster County office of the ACS, 400 Broadway, Kingston.

Cancer Drive Dinner Scheduled for April 5

KINGSTON Also featured will be Ulster County's Miss Hope 1972, Shirley Ann Kujawski, a Benedictine Hospital nurse. The entertainment will be by singers John A. McCullough and Nelson G. Burhans, accompanied by Mrs. Alan Sparks. The event will signal the start of the county-wide drive to raise $70,100, this year's goal.

Dutchess Unit Sets Goal

POUGHKEEPSIE The Dutchess County Unit of the American Cancer Society has set a goal of $98,000 for its 1972 Cancer Crusade, to begin April 3. The unit raised $93,200 last year of the total $2.4 million for the state. G. Bradford Davis, chairman of the 1971 campaign, will retain the chairmanship this year. Under his direction last year the unit raised more than $17,000 above its original quota. Vice-chairman of the county crusade is William E. Dexter Jr., last year's Beacon city chairman. The slogan of the 1972 campaign is "We want to wipe out cancer in your lifetime." Statistics forecast that more than 700 Dutchess County residents will die of cancer in 1972. "We can lessen this number only through dollars and education," said Dexter.

Basic Stewart Question Unanswered

By TIM SCHUSTER

POUGHKEEPSIE The basic question, "What does the Metropolitan Transportation Authority (MTA) plan to do with Stewart Airport?" remained unanswered Tuesday night at a public multi-sponsored meeting at the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Company, despite the fact that a spokesman for the MTA was present.

The best results to be garnered from Michael Fumerelli of the Metropolitan Transportation Authority was that the first phase of the master plan study would be revealed to the public June 1-maybe.

He noted that the MTA is committed to review this plan with "responsible local officials" and that public hearings will take place.

The central bone of contention among the various factions represented was whether or not to build a 4,000-foot extension onto the main runway at Stewart: the runway is 8,000 feet long.

Participating in the "debate" were Rod Vandivert, director of the Hudson River Valley Council; Dr. Robert Rehwoidt, director of the Marist College Department of Environmental Sciences; Art Weintraub, senior vice-president of the Mid-Hudson Patterns for Progress Inc.; Fumerelli of the MTA; and two representatives of the Federal Aviation Administration, Robert Stanton and Frank Carboyne. Weintraub favored making Stewart a "satellite airport," and limiting its operations to a top of 100,000 movements annually.

He said that a study by Patterns forecast 41,000 commercial and aviation movements (takeoffs and landings) at Stewart by 1985, at Stewart, said, "Promises similar to Albany Airport, and become a myth in the absence of a master plan."

And he added, "Expansion can wait for the master plan to prove its needs." He said that this would be the only 12,000 foot runway in the country, with the exception of Kennedy.

And he stated, "A change in the valley's environment... is the issue at stake here."

Stanton and Carboyne both stressed that the FAA's role is to foster aviation and, as such, the agency had approved the conversion of Stewart from a military to a civilian airport.

To the obvious perturbation of a good segment of the crowd in the standing room only auditorium, Stanton suggested that he would support strong zoning in a buffer area surrounding the airport.

"Let's not permit family living... in this area, he stated that such differences of opinion have been improving.

Vandivert, a staunch advocate of waiting until the master plan is ready before taking action, said, "Promises similar to Albany Airport, and become a myth in the absence of a master plan."

And he added, "Expansion can wait for the master plan to prove its needs." He said that this would be the only 12,000 foot runway in the country, with the exception of Kennedy.

Vandivert, a staunch advocate of waiting until the master plan is ready before taking action, said, "Promises similar to Albany Airport, and become a myth in the absence of a master plan."

And he added, "Expansion can wait for the master plan to prove its needs." He said that this would be the only 12,000 foot runway in the country, with the exception of Kennedy.

Will Query Settled By Ulster Jury Trial

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON A rarity in Ulster County, a jury trial in Surrogate Court involving the contested will of a Saugerties man who died in 1970, ended Monday afternoon with a settlement agreed upon between the man's housekeeper who was bequeathed the bulk of his estate and his children who were willed one dollar apiece.

According to Surrogate Court records, the estate in question was that of the late Claude Sowden Sr., who died Oct. 13, 1970, leaving the majority of his $35,000 to $40,000 assets, including property, to his "devoted friend and housekeeper, Florence Tucker" of Saugerties.

Court records show that Sowden wrote a will April 8, 1970, leaving the bulk of his estate to his children, Claude Sowden Jr. of Lake Mohoghan, William Sowden of Peekskill, a daughter, Eleanor Schmittman of Putnam Valley and a stepdaughter, Geraldine Feury of Hastings-on-Hudson. They were the sole beneficiaries prior to another will executed by Sowden June 30, 1970.

The latter will named Florence Tucker the beneficiary as well as one of the executors, Clarence John Nolle, three health agencies, a church, a fire company and a service organization. In bequeathing the major portion of his estate to the Tucker woman, Sowden stated in his will that she

"nursed him through many illnesses and two major operations."

Sowden's children, represented by Samalin and Sklaver of Yorktown Heights, according to court records, questioned whether Sowden was competent to make a will June 30, 1970, whether he was of sound mind and memory at the time, whether the writing of the will was a free and voluntary act or whether the signature obtained by fraud and undue influence? The records also state that the respondents question whether some other person or persons acted in concert?

The jury was drawn Friday and testimony was taken from one of two persons who witnessed Sowden's signature on the will of June 30, 1971.

Testimony was to resume Monday afternoon when it was announced that a settlement had been reached with the various health, service, fire and church organizations receiving the full amounts left them (ranging from $100 to $300 each). It was reported that Florence Tucker received the bulk of the estate but that the Sowden children were awarded some remuneration.

Surrogate Arthur A. Davis presided. William Brinnier III was counsel for one of the executors, Robert P. Schirmer and Benjamin B. Hersch of Peekskill represented Mrs. Tucker.

Police Awaiting Reports In Dutchess Death Probe

POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y. (AP) — Police in the Town of Poughkeepsie said early today they were awaiting reports from the Federal Bureau of Investigation in Washington and from police in Pasadena, Calif., before reaching more conclusions in their probe into the death of Sandra Morrison, 18, formerly of Wappingers Falls.

Pasadena police said they were questioning Richard J. Chase, 30, of Putnam Pike Chapachet, R.I., in connection with the death and another slaying. Police said Chase confessed Sunday to killing a girl in the Poughkeepsie area.

Miss Morrison's body was found by four hikers Sunday in a densely wooded area in this suburban town. She disappeared Jan. 19, after going to a Motor Vehicle Department office in the city of Poughkeepsie to have a driving permit certified.

Police said Miss Morrison was hitchhiking to her home when last seen. They said her body was found tied to a tree in an area more than a mile from the nearest road. The area is behind the Poughkeepsie Rural Cemetery, between the city and her home.

The body was nude, they said. The skull had been crushed, possibly by a rock, an autopsy revealed as the cause of death.

They said her sweater was tied around her neck and knotted behind the tree with a stick to tighten and fasten it.

Most of her clothing was found about 25 feet from her body. Authorities said there were no signs of a struggle where her body was found, although her sweater was torn in places.

Chase was arrested in northern California and arraigned Tuesday on a murder charge in the death of Edward C. Bangert, who, police said, was stabbed to death in his home.

Bangert's wallet, credit cards and car were stolen at the time of his death. Chase also was charged with car theft and robbery.

Evidence from the area where the body of Miss Morrison was found was taken Tuesday to the FBI laboratory in Washington, D.C., for analysis.

Poughkeepsie town police said Tuesday night they believed Chase had been in the area during January. They said they believed he was employed in the area but that they had not been able to confirm where he may have been working.

Strong Retiring From C-H Friday

POUGHKEEPSIE Edwin T. Strong, 34 Beechwood Park, Poughkeepsie, will retire as senior vice president of Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corporation on Friday.

During his 42-year career with Central Hudson, Strong held a number of management positions, principally in Kingston from 1931 until 1960, when he transferred to the utility's General Office in Poughkeepsie as Assistant to the Vice President-Commercial Relations.

He was named Manager of the Sales Division in March 1960 and appointed to the additional positions of assistant vice president and general commercial manager in 1962.

Strong was appointed vice president-Commercial in 1963, vice president in 1964, and senior vice president in 1967.

Strong has been active in many civil organizations and activities, both in Kingston and Poughkeepsie.

He served as a trustee of Kingston Hospital and of the Children's Home in Kingston. Strong is a past president of the Kingston Rotary Club and a past director of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce. He was active in the Ulster County Safety Council, the Ulster and Greene Counties Boy Scout Council, and in local Community Chest, Red Cross, and hospital fund drives.

The utility executive is a former trustee and member of the Advisory Board of Saint Francis Hospital in Poughkeepsie. He presently is a trustee emeritus of the hospital. He is a former member of the Committee on General Laws of the Empire State Chamber of Commerce and a former member of the Loan Committee of the New York Business Development Corporation. He presently is an honorary member of the National Sales Executives' Conference.

Strong served as a member of the American Gas Corporation, the Eastern Gas Sales Council, and the Metropolitan Gas Heating and Air Conditioning Council. He was active as a member of the Executive Committee of the New York State Farm Electrification Council and he served several terms as a member of the Marketing Division Executive Committee of the Edison Electric Institute. He also served as a member of the Committee on Exhibits of Electric Power and Light Exhibit, Inc., the organization set up for the investor-owned electric utility industry's participation in the 1964-65 New York World's Fair.

The utility executive was born in Beacon, and received a degree in electrical engineering from Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute in 1930.

He began his career with Central Hudson as an Estimator in Beacon. He transferred to Kingston in 1931 as Gas Househeating and Appliance Salesman and, later, served both in Kingston and Catskill in new business development assignments. Strong advanced to System Residential Electric Sales Supervisor in 1938, Kingston District Manager in 1941 and Western Division Manager in 1954. Israeli Intelligence—Page From James Bond BEIRUT (UPI)—A group of spies operating with the same flair and style as Britain's fictional James Bond played a key role in Israel's stunning victory in the 1967 war with Egypt.

That, at least, is the conclusion of the Egyptian news media which has been campaigning to alert the population to current Israeli intelligence activities in the country.

Spying can be very technical, the semi-official Middle East News Agency pointed out in one article, with the introduction of "electronic eavesdropping equipment, aerial reconnaissance and long-range photography by satellites." But, the agency said, in the conflict between Israel and the Arabs "the traditional methods of spying remain the most important."

Without the use of operatives on the ground, the agency said, Israel "could not have possibly triumphed over the Arabs in the previous wars, including the June, 1967, war."

Newspapers have printed lengthy accounts of how Israeli intelligence agents allegedly operate and much of the description makes these agents sound like living James Bonds. Ironically, the Bond movies are among the most popular with Arab movie audiences. The latest, "Diamond Are Forever," in which Bond stops briefly in Egypt, has played to packed houses in the area.

Newspapers have described a number of specific cases of persons who have been arrested and convicted of espionage activities in Egypt since the 1967 war.

One, an Egyptian identified as Mohammed Sami Nafeh, was said to have been recruited abroad and sent to Egypt with a transmitter hidden in a tape recorder. Another depicted spy was Ali Ahmed El Fares, whose love for wine and women was used by the Israelis, according to the newspaper account. "He eventually found himself in Cairo with a transmitter hidden in his walking cane."

The Middle East News Agency said Israeli spies use devices such as children's toys, hair brushes and aspirin packs to hide their transmitting equipment. It said the Israelis concentrate their recruitment effort on Egyptians living in European cities where Arabic-speaking, Israeli recruiting agents work in "cover organizations" such as sports centers, charity associations and cultural institutions. These agents make contact with the Egyptians, after carefully screening their movements and background and then wine, dine and womanize with them, on a grand scale, propositioning them to become spies, according to the Egyptian press. They have most success among persons who are "desperate, mean and most often in need of money," according to one story.

Once in Egypt these accounts warn, the spies take advantage of unwary citizens. The Israeli agents take advantage of the good-natured character of the average Egyptian, the Middle East News Agency said, "who tends to speak frankly about anything without realizing that what he may be saying would be useful to the enemy."

Every citizen, the agency said, is called upon to double about any state information he may happen to know about, coming battle of destiny should refrain from circulating rumors and should report to the police any activity he may think is harmful to the security of the state.

Greater Freedom In Poland

WARSAW (UPI)—Poland's newspapers have begun to push into areas previously closed to them under a mild liberalization of the press since Communist party leader Edward Gierk took over a year ago.

A good example is an article that appeared in a recent issue of the influential weekly Polityka, summing up three cabinet meetings which Polityka reporter Daniel Passent sat on. Passent's article didn't reveal much about government policy that wasn't known before, but it did give an interesting insight into the workings of government in a Communist country.

Premier Piotr Jaroszewicz presides at the weekly meetings, and according to Passent's report he gives short shrift to provincial officials who want party leaders to bail them out of trouble.

During one meeting the chairman of the People's Council in Poznan asked for money to make up the deficit in the city's budget.

"The premier remarked that there had been some abuses in this field," Passent reported, and that "the budget can hardly be based on taxes from profiteers."

"Increase your own incomes," Jaroszewicz was quoted as telling the Poznan chairman. "You should not expect Warsaw to patch every hole. Take the problem on your own shoulders."

Gierk believes the cardinal sin of his predecessor as party leader, Wladyslaw Gomulka, was to cut himself off from the people, so that he lost touch with what was going on in the country and mishandled the events leading up to the riots in December, 1970, that toppled him from power.

Gierk wants to avoid the same mistake, and apparently looks to the press to let him know if workers or housewives are unhappy.

As the chairman of the Polish Journalists Association, "The party regards it (the press) as a sensitive gauge of social moods, capable of signaling in good time any irregularities manifesting themselves in the life of the country and actively participating in the removal of these phenomena." Under this prodding, newspapers, and television have produced several reports, for example, about the poor living and working conditions in the textile center of Lodz, southwest of Warsaw.

With the wraps off, journalists now feel free to write that "Lodz displays its forgotten, shamefully hidden but true face: a landscape woven of smoke and red chipped bricks. A ravine of walls."

To help the newspapers in their job of communicating, party authorities have stepped up their supplies of newsprint. Party newspapers, beginning with the national party paper, Trybuna Ludu, will print more pages in each issue.

The greater freedom journalists have achieved is a double-edged sword, since they know they are being used by the party to improve its control over life in Poland. But at the same time, they are being allowed to do their jobs as journalists with less interference.

May Be The First 'Cavemen'

MANILA (UPI) — A scientific expedition that included Charles Lindberg has discovered that a long-lost tribe in the wilds of the Philippines may be the first known living "cavemen."

The tribe is the Tasadays, who until discovered last June in a dense forest in South Cotabato Province about 500 miles south of Manila, had been living a stone-age existence. They had no knowledge of rice, corn, tobacco, sugar, salt and other foods known by other tribes in the area.

American anthropologist Robert B. Fox, a long-time Philippine resident and chief anthropologist of the Philippine National Museum, said after the June expedition the Tasadays appeared to have been cut off from civilization for from 1,500 to 2,000 years.

A second expedition earlier this month has shown another important fact — the 24 members of the tribe live in three limestone caves about 600 feet up a mountainside deep in the forest.

The Rev. Frank Lynch, a Roman Catholic priest from

New York City who was chief anthropologist for this month's expedition, said so far as he has been able to find out no other existing culture lives in caves.

"This is of major scientific importance," Lynch said. "Some people have used caves for storage purposes, but this is the first time we know that a natural cave is used for basic dwelling purposes."

Another member of the expedition, which worked its way into the Tasaday country by helicopter and on foot, was Charles Lindberg, who is a director of the Panamin Company that financed the trek.

Manuel Elizade Jr., a millionaire-philanthropist who is director of Panamin and who led the expedition, said the previous meetings with the Tasadays had not revealed they lived in caves. He said they slept and ate in the caves and foraged for food during the day.

Some of the expedition members returned to Manila over the weekend, but several of its members were staying on with the Tasadays for another 10 days to observe their daily activities and to try to determine their language.

Wheels The Thing In Italy

ROME (AP) — Massimo Ascoli earns $60 a week as a bank clerk. He drives a $3,000 Alfa Romeo, spending more on the car than for his rent. He has no regrets. Nor do many others. This is a nation of enthusiasts about wheels.

"I love that car," says Ascoli. "It's a part of me." He dishes out half of his salary for payments and the car's upkeep. Gasoline costs about $1 a gallon.

This nation of 55 million has 10 million cars—about one for every fifth citizen. Ten years ago it was a car for every 17th Italian.

Every third Roman has a car. Traffic in historic center of the capital crawls an inch at a time. To ease bumper-to-bumper frustration the city recently offered free bus rides to Romans, hoping that they would leave cars at home. Only a few did.

Across the nation industrial production fell 3 per cent last year but cars and imports held their own. Giovanni Agnelli, president of Fiat, said auto production could hardly keep up with demand.

An Italian who owns a car he can hardly afford becomes a dogged devotee of the manufacturer, upholding the car's virtues and ignoring shortcomings.

WOMEN WHO DRIVE

Few of us keep our cars equipped for the unexpected, which may confront us especially during this season of inclement weather.

If you are among the millions of unprepared motorists, you can correct the condition quickly and inexpensively, says Phyllis W. Barlow, Extension Home Economist.

Begin with the following shopping list of ten items. Store neatly in a carton in the trunk of your car, these should prepare you for most roadside emergencies.

1. FIRST AID KIT . . . Check the American Red Cross for proper contents — such as water, paper cups, a blanket, certain bandages, etc.

2. FIRE EXTINGUISHER . . . Buy a good one and practice using it — before you have to. A Co2 or 2½ pound (or larger) dry chemical extinguisher is recommended.

3. FLASHLIGHT . . . Use it to read a map, find a key for house number at night. And get one with a magnet so it can be placed on the side of car to free your hands or rather your husband's while a flat tire is being changed.

4. TIRE INFLATOR . . . The pressurized can is easy to use and will help you get to the nearest service station for a tire change. In fact, there are times when it is downright unsafe to try to change a tire — because of traffic conditions, weather position of the car, time of day.

5. SPARE FUSES . . . Your auto store or service station man can tell you how many of what type you will need.

6. FLARES . . . When you're in trouble on a dark road, reflector flares or emergency flashers are friends indeed. These are available at most auto supply stores. Place yours 50 feet behind and ahead of your car to alert oncoming traffic of your predicament.

7. BATTERY JUMPER CABLE . . . This can be worth its weight in gold when you are stranded with a dead battery and another motorist comes to your aid.

8. TWO 4 x 4 WOOD BLOCKS . . . about 12 inches long, to block the wheels while the car is jacked up for a tire change — if you've forgotten your tire inflator. "Choked" wheels keep the car from rolling off the bumper jack.

9. A DIME . . . in case you have to make a phone call.

10. A DISPOSABLE WASH-CLOTH . . . You'll be glad you have it after you've worked with the car.

Coleman Parents Association Plans May Social

The John A. Coleman announced plans for a Garden Bazaar to be held Friday, May 5 and Saturday May 6 at the Coleman High School, Hurley Avenue Extension, Kingston.

Many Kingstonians and area residents will remember the Garden Party, an annual spring event sponsored by the Parents' Association of the Academy of St. Ursula for more than 25 years. In June 1966 the Academy of St. Ursula, a private Catholic school for girls conducted by the Sisters of St. Ursula, became the John A. Coleman Catholic High School, a co-educational high school of the Archdiocese of New York. The Coleman Parents' Association hopes to recapture the spirit of the former Garden Parties by including many of the booths, games and activities that were popular with the children, teenagers and adults at that time. There will be also many new attractions for the public at the Coleman Bazaar. The students and student organizations of Coleman High School will participate in the fund raising event.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hastings, general chairmen of the Garden Bazaar have appointed the following parents as committee members:

General Co-chairmen: Mr. and Mrs. Salvatore Castiglione, Mr. and Mrs. William Weishaupt and Mr. and Mrs. John Dent.

Refreshments: Mr. and Mrs. Warren Lawrence, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Nelson; Games: Mr. and Mrs. John Sangaline, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Sapp; Children's Program: Mr. and Mrs. John Bentley, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Engle, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Keller, Mr. and Mrs. James Madden; Awards: Mr. and Mrs. Salvatore Castiglione, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Mayone; Administrative: Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Albany, Mr. and Mrs. Ignazio Bosco; Publicity: Mr. and Mrs. William Mahoney.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Deitz, student enterprise coordinators will work with the

Read Your Labels

Look for hang tags and labels on all clothes and read them carefully. They provide valuable information as to fabric and fibre content, finish, washing or cleaning instructions. Some clothes are specially finished to be stain or soil resistant or water repellent. Synthetics and cottons are easier to care for — they are crease-resistant, washable and require little ironing.

Being Accident-Prone May Be No Accident

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© 1972 by Chicago Tribune
N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: My husband has had three serious accidents at work in the past two years. I have quit asking him to do chores around the house because he is always mashing his fingers with a hammer, cutting himself, or falling off the ladder while changing the screens or storm windows.

It's a good year when he hasn't had a couple of automobile accidents. The doctor at the plant where he works suggests that he see a PSYCHIATRIST! Why! He isn't crazy.

HIS WIFE

DEAR WIFE: People who have more than their share of "accidents" could be unconsciously punishing themselves for unresolved guilt. And they need not be "crazy" to do so. I think the plant doctor planted a very good suggestion in your husband's mind.

DEAR ABBY: I just read the letter in your column about the husband who completely avoids sex. I was glad to learn I wasn't the only person in the world who feels this way about sex. I am a married woman, and thank heavens my husband isn't the type of man who makes unpleasant demands on me. In almost every article I have ever read about failing marriages, they say the main reason is that one of the partners is "sexually inadequate" — whatever that means.

What most people can't understand is that some people just don't care for sex that much. I personally find the very thought of it sickening. It is really more trouble than it's worth. I am not an unloving person. I just happen to feel that love can be expressed in other ways. Besides there are too many people in the world already. Believe me, we have a better marriage than most people I know, and my husband really understands me.

HAPPY WITHOUT SEX
DEAR ABBY: If you are happy, and your husband is happy, then I am happy.

DEAR ABBY: I'm going with a swell guy and I like him alot. He is very kind and considerate. He's polite, too, helping with my chair and holding doors open for me. You could say he was a perfect gentleman — except when he eats, and Abby, he eats just like a hog! I am so ashamed to eat with him. He slurps his soup and smacks his lips. He locks his little finger over his fork and holds his knife in a tightfist grasp. He eats very quickly and practically shovels his food in.

How can I correct him without hurting his feelings? Or worse yet, scaring him off! I don't want to lose him.

CHICKEN

DEAR CHICKEN: When you and he are alone together (and ideally, eating) start by suggesting that he eat a little more slowly. Then suggest that he eat a little more quietly. Next, very diplomatically show him how to hold his knife and fork. If you correct him gently, and in the spirit of kindness he will neither hurt nor scare off.

CONFIDENTIAL TO MY READERS: Next Sunday is Easter. Please do not give a child who is too young to care for it properly a living gift. Every year a shocking number of baby chicks, rabbits, kittens and puppies have been mauled, handled, smothered and neglected to death by children who received them as Easter gifts, and regard them as "toys." Have a heart, and give small children stuffed animals instead.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope. Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069, for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

(Hear Dear Abby Mon. thru Sat. at 10:25 a.m. WKNY-1490)

Wright, district grand lecturer; and Elizabeth Wright, grand representative to the State of Wyoming. (Freeman photo by Haines)

Hints from Heloise

By HELOISE
HOW TO MEND YOUR MATTRESS

DEAR HELOISE: I had an accident recently; I tore the mattress changing it and while turning it over. I used mending tape under the tear. Then cut off the ravelings. According to the package directions, I used a hot iron to set the tape. Then I put another piece of mending tape on top according to directions. (Let the tape cool completely between applications.)

LOIS LUKER

P.S. I must confess — I didn't do the mending. Mom did!

HELOISE

Letter of Thought
DEAR HELOISE: I read your column every day and have had many helpful hints, and now I would like to help others with a suggestion.

If you ever have any legitimate complaints of any kind, first write to the company. I have found that you get results nine times out of ten, and it is most satisfactory. Recently I had a most unfortunate experience with the quality of some paint that had been applied to my house. Frequent calls to the company that did the job brought no action.

Finally, I wrote to the Department of Consumer Protection in my state capital. I'm sure all states have this service. But, if not — write to the same department in Washington, D.C.

Many people do not know this, and there are no words in the dictionary to express the wonderful service and interest they have given us. The man said they did not know of these things unless people write them, or call them about this protection.

So do write and voice your complaints instead of just putting up with them. Everyone will benefit from this service.

MRS. NORMAN THORPE
And please remember, folks, you can also call your Better Business Bureau. This service is always available, too.

Golden Brown Stuffed Turkey For Easter Sunday Dinner

EASTER DINNER MENU

Have a happy Easter! You surely will when you serve a golden brown turkey accompanied with fresh fruit and vegetables.

Be sure to buy a turkey large enough for the family dinner and for tomorrow's meal, too. Allow one and one-half pounds per person of the ready-to-stuff turkey or two pounds if an already stuffed turkey is purchased. These amounts will give generous servings for the holiday dinner with some remaining for the leftover recipe, Specially Spring Hot Turkey Salad.

For convenience, the thawing directions are on the wrapper and the roasting directions are right on the easy-to-remove giblet bag. Brush the butterball turkey skin with melted fat to help the turkey turn to a golden brown during roasting. Since a self-basting mixture is added deep inside to baste the turkey during cooking, there is no need for further basting.

Serve the tender, juicy turkey with a touch of spring by surrounding it with pineapple and fresh strawberries atop lemon leaves.

This Upside-Down Cocoa Cake Is Scrumptious

UPSIDE-DOWN COCOA CAKE — Fruits and nuts are glazed in a brown sugar and butter syrup to form the topping of this superb cake.

Lots of people would rate upside-down cake as their very favorite above any other type cake. Others would give the nod to chocolate.

If you just can't decide, here's the perfect answer. This beautiful cake is rich and chocolatey, and it bakes upside-down to form a right-side-up topping of glistening, glazed fruits and nuts.

Deliciously moist, the cocoa cake is baked in a Bundt pan or tube pan to make the presentation even more spectacular.

Upside-Down Cocoa Cake

Three tablespoons butter, melted

One-half cup light brown sugar, packed

Two tablespoons light corn syrup

One can (one pound 13 ounces) peach slices or pear halves, well drained
Maraschino cherries, halved.

One-half cup chopped nuts (optional)

One-half cup butter or margarine

One and one-quarter cups sugar

Two eggs

One teaspoon vanilla

One and one-quarter cup all-purpose flour

One-third cup unsweetened cocoa

Three-quarter teaspoon baking soda

One half teaspoon salt

Two thirds cup buttermilk

Combine three tablespoons butter, brown sugar and corn syrup in bottom of a 12-cup Bundt pan or 10-inch tube pan. (Do not use a removable bottom tube pan.) Arrange peach slices or pear halves and cherries in a decorative design. Sprinkle with chopped nuts.

Cream one-half cup butter or margarine and sugar until light and fluffy. Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition; add vanilla. Combine flour, cocoa, baking soda and salt; add to creamed mixture alternately with buttermilk. Pour batter evenly over fruit and nuts in pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 40 to 45 minutes for Bundt pan, 50 to 55 minutes for tube pan. Immediately invert onto serving plate; leave pan over cake a few minutes. Serve warm with sweetened whipped cream, if desired.

Will Oscar's Injury Cost Bucks the Title?

Milwaukee Drops Opener

Is Oscar Robertson, one of the greatest players in National Basketball Association history, hurting to the point where it will cost the Milwaukee Bucks defense of their league title?

The 33-year-old Robertson, the NBA's second leading all-time scorer and top playmaker, has been suffering from a strained muscle in his abdomen since Feb. 4.

It showed Tuesday night as the Bucks were upset by the Golden State Warriors 117-106 in the opening game of their best-of-seven Western Conference semifinal series at Milwaukee.

In the other Western Conference semifinal, the Los Angeles Lakers, who won a record 69 games during the regular season, began their series against Chicago by wearing down the injury-riddled Bulls 95-80 at Los Angeles.

The Boston Celtics, for many years the league's most dominant team, make their first post-season appearance in three seasons, entertaining the Atlanta Hawks tonight in the opening game of the Eastern Conference playoffs.

The other Eastern Conference semifinal begins Friday night at Baltimore, with the Bullets facing the New York Knicks.

All series are best-of-seven games. In the American Basketball Association Tuesday night, it was: Carolina 127, Virginia 121; Kentucky 134, Pittsburgh 132; New York 92, Indiana 86; Floridians 118, Memphis 107, and Dallas 98, Utah 95.

Golden State's Jim Barnett, who was guarded by Robertson, ran Oscar ragged and scored a game-high 30 points for the Warriors.

Karee-Jabbar, the league's leading scorer and Most Valuable Player for the second straight year, led the Bucks with 28 points, seven below his average. Robertson, seeing his most extensive action since suffering his injury, had 23.

Guards Gail Goodrich with 32 points and Jerry West with 23 keyed Los Angeles' victory over Chicago. Each scored six points when the Lakers ran off 15 consecutive points early in the third period and moved from a 49-43 deficit to a commanding 58-49 lead.

Not only did the Bulls lose the game, they lost two players by injuries. Center Tom Boerwinkle again tore fibers in the back of his left knee, and Coach Dick Motta said the 7-foot pivotman wouldn't play again in the series.

Forward Chet Walker, a 20-point scorer during the regular season but held to five by the Lakers, also suffered an injury to his left knee and is not expected to play in the series' second game Thursday night.

Memphis Signs JU Soph

Brent Turns Pro

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI)—David Brent is 19 years old, the proud owner of a new luxury automobile, with a bonus of about $10,000 in his pocket and a contract to make up to about $1 million over the next five years.

Brent's sudden entry into affluence was announced Tuesday when the ABA Memphis

Pros signed the 7-foot-1 sophomore at Jacksonville University to a professional basketball contract.

"For many reasons I'm pleased to be with Memphis," the young giant said. "I am close to my home in St. Louis and I have heard many wonderful things about the city here."

For many different reasons, the Pros are pleased to be with Brent.

Viewing the Western Division of the ABA from the bottom up, the Pros hope Brent will become a dominating force in the league. As an indication of his ability, the Pros cite 32 blocked shots by Brent in leading Jacksonville to a third-place finish in the recent National Invitation Tournament.

Hampered by a broken leg early in the season, Brent averaged only 11 points a game this year. As a sophomore, he averaged just under 26 points and drew praise from a previous Dolphin star — Artis Gilmore of the Kentucky Colonels.

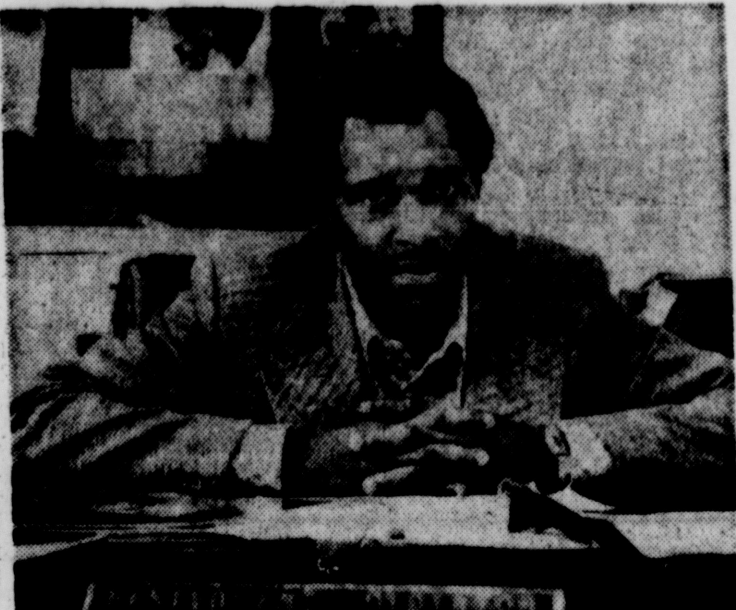

Brent "should become a super star," Gilmore said after the Pros announced they had drafted Brent.

Tom Wasdin, coach of the Jacksonville club, said he was a bit surprised that Brent signed this year. "It would have helped David to play two more years," Wasdin said. "He is potentially great, and I think that's why Memphis drafted him — not for the present, but for the future."

The terms of the contract were not revealed, but Pros general manager Bob Vanatta called the contract "excellent."

Brent's agent, Cliff Paul of Houston, indicated the figure was about $1.1 million. The Lincoln Continental and the cash were a bonus to sign.

"He was so happy to sign," Vanatta said. "That he put down the pen and grabbed both of my hands in his. There were tears in his eyes."

Jose Napoles Retains Welterweight Crown

WEMBLEY, England (AP) — "The British boy never hurt me," declared a confident, elated Jose Napoles of Mexico after knocking out Britain's Ralph Charles to retain his welterweight boxing title. It was an even bout until the 32-year-old Cuban-born champion caught the red-haired Englishman with a flurry of punches late in the seventh round Tuesday night. Napoles registered the knockout after 2 minutes, 52 seconds of the round with a left hook followed by a right cross. "I never even saw the right time," Charles, who suffered his third defeat in 43 fights, "Napoles was everything I expected—a great champion. I thought all the way through that I could win the title if I could just tire him out, but he didn't tire."

Napoles and his manager, Cuco Conde, were looking ahead. According to Conde, the next opponent for Napoles might be Sandro Lopopolo of Milan, Italy, a former junior welterweight champion. Conde mentioned Monte Carlo as a possible site and June as a

After Smooth Managerial Change

Pirates Get Ready

By United Press International

The Pittsburgh Pirates are getting ready for the defense of their world championship as smoothly as the managerial reins were passed from Danny Murtagh to Bill Virdon during the winter.

With a 15-9 record, the Pirates have the fourth best mark in spring training games and key stars like Dock Ellis, Willie Stargell, Roberto Clemente, Steve Blass and Bob Robertson look ready to open the season.

Blass and Robertson played the starring roles Tuesday when the Pirates downed the St. Louis Cardinals 6-2.

Blass, who beat the Baltimore Orioles in the seventh game of the World Series last October, usually is slow rounding into form in the spring but he yielded only three hits in seven shutout innings Tuesday. The Cardinals rallied against John Lamb for two runs in the ninth but the threat was wiped out when third baseman Rich Hebner, second baseman Renie Stennett and first baseman Jose Pagan executed a triple play.

Robertson supplied the customary Pittsburgh muscle with two homers. He hit his first off Jim Maloney with the bases empty in the second inning and connected for a three-run homer off Al Santorini in the fifth.

In other camps: Rookie Bob Grich's two-run double and Andy Etchebarren's two-run homer led the Baltimore Orioles to a 6-1 victory over the Texas Rangers. Pat Dobson pitched five shutout innings for the Orioles. The Detroit Tigers shaded the New York Mets 5-4, when rookie Brent Strom's balk allowed Gates Brown to score in the bottom of the 10th inning.

Doubles by Sandy Alomar, Ken McMullen and Ken Berry were the big blows as the California Angels beat the Oakland Athletics 6-1. Willie Davis' eighth-inning homer gave the Los Angeles Dodgers a 6-5 victory over the New York Yankees. Fred Beene was the victim of David's homer. Denis Menke homered and George Foster, Cesar Geronimo and Joe Morgan had triples in leading the Cincinnati Reds to a 7-3 triumph over the Houston Astros.

Homers by Del Unser and Alex Johnson and six strong innings by Steve Dunning paced the Cleveland Indians to a 6-2 decision over the San Francisco Giants. Pinch-hitter Paul Popovich's two-run triple and Carmen Fanzone's homer led the Chicago Cubs to an 8-6 victory over the San Diego Padres.

A three-run homer by Dave May capped a five-run seventh-inning rally which lifted the Milwaukee Brewers to a 5-3 triumph over a team of Cleveland reserves. Harmon Killebrew hit his third homer of the spring as the Minnesota Twins and Boston Red Sox played a 3-3 tie in a game halted by rain after eight innings. The Twins announced after the game the reassignments to their minor league camp of outfielder Jim Holt and pitchers Hal Haydel, Jim Strickland and Dave Goltz.

The Montreal Expos asked waivers on pitcher Ron Taylor, placed infielder Coco Laboy on the disabled list and returned outfielder Keith Lampard to Houston. Jim Fahey singled home Gary Sutherland in the 10th inning giving the Expos a 5-4 victory over the Atlanta Braves. Carl Morton, Balor Moore, Joe Gilbert, Tom Walker and Mike Marshall combined to strike out 13 Braves.

Ellie Coach Optimistic

ELLENVILLE With seven starters back for the 1972 baseball season, coach Dave Frank of Ellenville High School says: "I'm very optimistic," but has some reservations: "The only problem is pitching."

Wayne Grey, the lone senior on the Ellie squad, will start his third year behind the plate and figures to be the big man in the Blue Devil hitting attack. Around the infield the team is intact from the 8-7 lineup of last year. Gary Wilhelm at first, Steve Tennenbaum at second, Kyle Hoar at short and Bob Pensa at third are backed by veteran outfielders Glen Horowitz and Miguel Martinez. Frank feels that the cohesiveness of his unit will be a big factor. "They all played together last year at these positions so I expect good defense from them. Our hitting is fair. Grey and Pensa are our best men there, and I would say that Wilhelm, Tennenbaum and Hoar are adequate."

On the mound, however, the Ellie have a void to fill, and since that's the name of the game, Frank says: "The kind of a year we're going to have will depend on the kind of pitching we get."

The Ellie coach feels he'll have to get the hurling out of Hoar and Pensa with senior Herm Santiago out for the first time this year as a possibility. Ray Younger and Neil Greenburger, a pair of sophomores, will add their skills this season to the roster. Younger is an outfielder and Greenburger a utility man.

Like everybody else in the U.C.A.L. Frank feels the Marlboro Dukes are the team to beat, but he also sees Liberty as a contender.

Liberty Hurting

One of the unknown factors in the U.C.A.L. baseball race this year is Harry Rapenski's Indians. In '71 Liberty raced through an undefeated season before absorbing defeat in sectional competition, and this has caused concern among Liberty's new opponents.

"We don't have the depth and experience we had last year," sighs Rapenski, "and with three games per week on the schedule I sure wish I had that pitching staff back."

But four stars are back for the Sullivan County nine, including Pete Mann, John Forrest, Stan Jones and Ron Meadow. Mann will anchor the pitching staff with help from juniors Ivan Richards and Steve Foster. Forrest plays the outfield, Meadows the infield and Jones is a multi-talented utility man.

Rapenski feels the overall competition will be tougher than his team faced last year, and he'll have to get the job done with many new faces. Ed Roth shapes up as the catcher, and Angelo, Berry a sophomore infielder, "looks good so far" according to the coach.

"I don't know too much about the team we'll be playing this year," said Rapenski. "Ellenville is the only team there we've played before, and they've always given us a tough game. I'm told Marlboro is very strong also."

Port Ewen Coasts

KINGSTON Port Ewen coasted to an 83-47 Church League basketball victory over Immanuel at the Michael School after piling up a 41-16 halftime lead. Lucas netted 24 points for the winners to lead the Port attack while teammate Harris added 17. Jensen had 23 for Immanuel.

Wallkill Material Young, Experienced

WALLKILL Young and experienced may sound like a contradiction, but that's what the Wallkill High School baseball team shapes up like this season. Coach John Piengo has eight of his Panthers back and only half of them are seniors.

The Scotto twins are at the infield corners, and that's good news for Wallkill fans. Lou plays third and led the club in hitting last year with a .380 mark, while Tony, another good hitter, has the job at first.

"We're a good fielding club," says Piengo. Much of the reason is due to Bob Faurote who covers center field. A senior, like the Scotto's, Faurote will join with another upperclassman, Ben Perez, in right and sophomore hopeful Ted Boski in the outfield.

Also back in the fold are junior shortstop Willie Hernandez and sophomore receiver Mark Walther, but the Panther strength this year, claims Piengo, is on the mound.

STONE RIDGE Coach Decker has five other candidates who could help the Senators win a second straight Mid-Hudson Conference crown. The group includes Ed Attenau, Jay Deuser, Akis Kiriakoy, George Williams and Larry Shelton, the brother of last year's No. 5 singles player.

Zeeh, incidentally, has transferred to East Stroudsburg State College, Pa. where he has been installed as No. 1 singles player and team captain by Stroudsburg's famed Coach Charlie Wolbers, who put State University New Paltz on the collegiate map before transferring his considerable talents to East Stroudsburg.

The Ulster team will play an expanded schedule of seven dual meets, plus two weekends of tournaments this season. All competition will be against two-year colleges this season, in contrast to last year when the Senators had two meets with four-year colleges.

The seasonal opener is scheduled April 15 at Kingsborough CC in Brooklyn, with the home inaugural with Rockland April 17.

The Mid-Hudson Conference championships are scheduled May 5-6 and the Region XV event May 12-13 at places to be announced later.

Football — John Cronan.

Rich Koegel, who was cited in two categories, was named the school's outstanding athlete. The guest speakers were Warren Koegel, Glasco-based Oakland Raider lineman, and former Saugerties High athletic great, Roger Praetorius, who is now a backfield ace at Syracuse University.

The honored guests were Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence M. Cahill, who was the first Saugerties High School athletic coach and served the school, sports and the community for many decades.

Saugerties High School athletic director was the toastmaster. Rev. John A. Needham gave the invocation and benediction. Booster Club officers introduced were: Jack Keeley, president; Ray Fuller, vice president; Dan Lee.

Girard Brothers Place in State Judo

KINGSTON William R. Girard of the Kingston Judo Club was runnerup in the 14½ year old division of the Invitational Judo Tournament at Albany State College.

His 11-year-old brother, Ronald Girard, placed fifth in his division. The Girard's are sons of Al Girard, president of the Kingston club.

Good Talent At Red Hook

RED HOOK While most U.C.A.L. coaches along about this time are worrying about Marlboro and trying to fill the vacancies on their rosters, Al Mallanda is sitting snugly in Red Hook with nine returning lettermen and a six-man pitching staff.

"Although the U.C.A.L. is strong," says the Raider coach, "I feel this team is one of the strongest contenders."

Mallanda lost three outfielders and a catcher to graduation from a squad that finished in second place in the Bi-Valley loop last season with a 144 record, but his entire infield is back, including Terry Thayer who led the club in hitting last year with a .338 average.

It's the mound corps, however, that should really make the Raiders a force with which to be reckoned. Senior Jeff Thompson, juniors Randy Fister and Ron Canisasca, JV graduates Tim Cunningham and Glenn Traudt and transfer Rich Dalzell are all considered starting caliber.

Dan Hoch, Dan Theberg and Bill Mitchell, with help from Cunningham, Dalzell and Sal Magley, will handle the infield chores. John Kelly, a senior, will work behind the plate.

"The outfield is fast with strong arms," says Mallanda. Jeff Thompson, Gary O'Connor and Barry Simmons will be on the grass along with Fister, Traudt and Canisasca. As the Raiders embark on their first season in the U.C.A.L., Mallanda feels: "We're the dark horse because most teams don't know us and may take us lightly. We have experience, pitching and defense to do the job and are looking forward to the tough competition."

Dual Win For Recs

RED HOOK Red Hook Rec Park boys and girls swimming teams defeated Marlboro Dukes in a dual meet climaxed 20 weeks of winter practice for the locals. The boys won 200-146, while the girls prevailed 127-44, in the 44-event meet.

Speedster Mike Mosher captured three first in the 10-under division for Red Hook, winning the 25 yard freestyle, backstroke and butterfly, in addition to anchoring the relay victory. The Red Hook squad shattered seven team records and won 23 first places to 17 for Marlboro.

The Rec Park girls won all four freestyle relays, led by the 12-and-under group which has never lost in competition. Ann Hoch and Denise Zimmerman scored doubles, while teammate Sharon Thomas set a new record of 41 seconds in the 50-yard breaststroke to dethrone last years queen Barbara Skiba in the 9-10 division.

Red Hook coaches Jim Jurkowski and Dan Hook surprised the traditional pool dunking in time to accept a trophy from Marlboro coaches Tom Albright and Katie Gallagher.

Young and experienced may sound like a contradiction, but that's what the Wallkill High School basketball team shapes up like this season. Coach John Piengo has eight of his Panthers back and only half of them are seniors.

The Scotto twins are at the infield corners, and that's good news for Wallkill fans. Lou plays third and led the club in hitting last year with a .380 mark, while Tony, another good hitter, has the job at first.

"We're a good fielding club," says Piengo. Much of the reason is due to Bob Faurote who covers center field. A senior, like the Scotto's, Faurote will join with another upperclassman, Ben Perez, in right and sophomore hopeful Ted Boski in the outfield.

Also back in the fold are junior shortstop Willie Hernandez and sophomore receiver Mark Walther, but the Panther strength this year, claims Piengo, is on the mound.

Village Board Asks Voting on Ellenville Terms

ELLENVILLE The Ellenville Village Board has called for permissive referendums to increase the terms of office of the mayor and trustees to four years.

The two measures, which would double the present terms of office for the village's leaders, were introduced at Monday night's board meeting by Trustee Michael Tannenbaum. Both passed by 4-1 margins, with the lone dissenting voice coming from Trustee DeWitt E. Clinton, who was attending his last meeting before leaving office April 1. No date was set for the referendums.

The board accepted a low bid of $3,187.95 from Lonstein's Motors for a new truck for the water department. The William Collier Corp. submitted the only other bid.

Trustee David Kramer, who also leaves office April 1, recommended that the board follow through on a program to develop new sources of water supply for the village and also recommended that the village begin municipal garbage collection.

The board set a public hearing on the coming year's budget for 8 p.m. on Monday, April 17, in conjunction with the board's second regular monthly meeting.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day and evening when your reasoning powers are apt to conflict with your emotions which could cause some difficult relationships with others. Try to maintain self-control and equanimity in whatever you think say or do and thus avoid any difficult conditions.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to April 19) Try not to be demanding with associates and avoid serious trouble. Any changes you want to make should await a better day. Put everything in right perspective. Relax at home tonight.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You may be out of focus and not getting your work done properly, so get back on the beam. Eliminate a bad habit and then make this a most productive day. Don't neglect correspondence.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Instead of being suspicious of your loved one be reassured. Don't spend too much money on amusements. Stay within your budget at all times. Accept a nice invitation this evening.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Use a diplomatic approach with a family tie who is not acting in a proper manner. A good day to avoid a friend who is in an irritable mood. Show that you have poise.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) A good time to exchange ideas with associates and then begin new routines for mutual benefit. See to it that valuables are in safe places. Don't be careless and lose something of worth.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Be careful not to deplete your finances by hasty investments or foolish spending. Make sure that advice you get from an expert is good, since this person may have monetary woes.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Try not to force anything today or others may resent it. Use more tact to get right results. Don't take risks of any kind. Avoid the social tonight since it wouldn't be worthwhile.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You can obtain information you need now in a quiet way. Put your mind to work on an important project that could be helpful to you. Make sure your shoes are in good condition.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You have to treat others with kid gloves now, since they are in an irritable mood. Plan how to gain personal desires quietly without any fuss. Avoid one who likes to bicker.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Not a good day to see influential persons who are now busy, so take care of your own immediate affairs. An outside matter could be upsetting, but take it in your stride. Be objective.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) A big problem developed lately and you want to make radical changes, but first solve this matter wisely and you do much better. It's important that you keep promises made.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You have many obligations to meet, so schedule them wisely and carry through in a methodical way. A close tie could be annoying but show understanding. A kind word goes a long way.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those interesting young people with a knack for getting into hot water early in life and requires understanding and guidance before aims are realized. The chart would be fine in any of the engineering fields. Religion early is important.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

BOY LOST: (Q.) I lost my boy friend for good about a month ago. Another girl is going to have a baby and it is his and he is going to marry her.

I still love him very much and I can't stop thinking about him. It was so bad at home that I moved away and am living in a two-room apartment. I'm not quite 18 yet but have a job.

I don't really need to eat. I sort of live on diet pills and don't get hungry. I drink too. That helps me forget Bill. He's my boy friend. I mean he's not my boy friend. I have to keep reminding myself of that and it hurts.

I know I need to do something but I'm not sure what. Do you know?—Confused in Kansas.

(A.) Yes. Go back to your home and family. Ask your parents to help you.

Face the fact that love is what you need—not pills or alcohol. Your family can give you love.

Your former boy friend couldn't and can't give you love. But you eventually will find a boy who can. Start looking for him.

And if you didn't finish high school, go back and do so.

UNKISSED: (Q.) I've been going out with this boy for two months and he has yet to kiss me. What can I do to get him to?—Waiting in Texas.

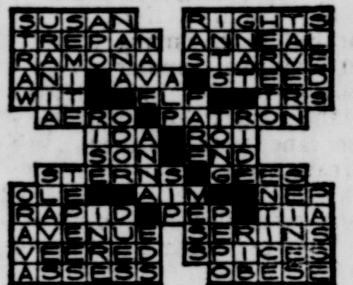

(A.) If there's ever a special moment when you feel particularly close to him, you might gently kiss him on the cheek. That might get your message across to him.

Tough Con Is Killed in Break Try

SAN JOSE, Calif. (UPI)—A convicted robber, plunged his knife six inches into his own leg he was by plunging a knife six inches into his leg was killed by a police marksman Tuesday, ending a jailbreak attempt in which two persons were held hostage 100 yards from the courtroom where Angela Davis is on trial.

Jacob Zitzer, 28, was shot to death when sheriff's deputies rushed him and two other prisoners to end a two-hour, 15 minute standoff at the Santa Clara County Jail.

"It's all over. The two hostages are OK," said Sheriff Lt. Don Tamm at 11 a.m. He spoke over a loudspeaker to about 500 newsmen and spectators who had gathered for Miss Davis trial, which was postponed until today.

The hostages—a young medical secretary and a public defender—were released safely. During their ordeal Zitzer, a convicted robber, plunged his knife six inches into his own leg to show he would not hesitate to kill the hostages.

The three prisoners used knives to take the hostages in the incident that was unrelated to Miss Davis trial, but similar to the 1970 Marin County shootings for which she is accused of murder, kidnap and conspiracy.

Miss Davis arrived with her attorney shortly after the 8:40 a.m. attempted jailbreak began. She was stopped at the locked gates leading to the Superior Court, then was allowed to enter and go directly to Judge Richard E. Arnason's chamber.

The three inmates, Zitzer, Norman Lucas and Ted Guerrero, reported to the prison medical center on sick call shortly before 8 a.m. It was there they pulled 12-inch knives and took the hostages.

LADY IN WAITING — Angela Davis sits outside the Santa Clara County, Calif., courthouse during an attempted jailbreak at the Santa Clara County Jail, about 100 yards away from the courthouse where Miss Davis' trial is under way. No one was allowed into the county building during the escape attempt. After about 20 minutes waiting, Miss Davis went into the courthouse where the trial was called off for the day. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Angela's Trial Delayed Two Hours of Suspense

SAN JOSE, Calif. (UPI)—Angela Davis arrived Tuesday at her trial for plotting to break prisoners out of San Quentin only to find the day's session called off because of an attempted jailbreak.

The abortive escape try in which two hostages were taken and a prisoner shot and killed Tuesday had nothing to do with the case of the 28-year-old former UCLA philosophy teacher except that it occurred in the jail where she would have been held had she not been freed on bail.

The two hours of suspense were played out 100 yards from the courtroom and ended with a sudden shot that sent 500 spectators scrambling to the ground outside the Santa Clara County Jail where a getaway car had been revved up for three inmates.

The trial, itself was to resume today with the defense making an opening statement rebutting state charges that Miss Davis conspired in the Marin County courthouse shooting of Aug. 7, 1970, because she was passionately in love with "Soledad Brother" George Jackson.

The defense was expected to advance its case that Miss Davis, a black militant Communist, played no part in the taking of hostages in the Marin County courthouse and slaying of Judge Harold Haley, but is being prosecuted in a "political frameup." She is on trial on charges of murder-kidnap.

On Monday, the chief prosecutor, Albert W. Harris Jr., told an all-white jury that the state had evidence that Miss Davis had a "simple human passion" for Jackson that knew no bounds.

Jackson, a black revolutionary and one of the so-called "Soledad Brothers" was killed last August in a bloody outbreak at San Quentin Prison in which three guards and two inmate trustees died.

In the state's opening remarks, Harris gave an account of all the circumstantial evidence that tied Miss Davis to the courtroom escape attempt in San Rafael.

He also gave the first detailed account of the killing of Judge Harold Haley, whom he said was taken hostage along with three jurors as ransom for the release of the "Soledad Brothers."

Harrisburg Defense...Summations

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI)—The Harrisburg Seven defense Tuesday told the jury in the case of the Rev. Philip F. Berrigan and six other antiwar activists that what should be on trial is the morality of the FBI and the character of its informant, Boyd F. Douglas Jr.

Three more defense attorneys remained today to give summations in the 10th week of the federal court trial. The seven, vigorous opponents of the Vietnam War, are accused of plotting in 1970 to kidnap presidential advisor Henry A. Kissinger, blow up Washington heating systems and vandalize draft boards to publicize their cause.

More than 200 seminarians said they plan today to ring the federal building with their bodies in peaceful civil disobedience in support of the Harrisburg Seven. Authorities said they had been assured by the National Union of Theological Students that there would be no forcible blocking of entrances.

The action was part of a Holy Week program of sympathetic demonstrations to be climaxed by a rally Saturday.

J. Thomas Menaker opened the defense summations Tuesday with an attack on the FBI and Douglas, its paid informer who in the summer of 1970 supplied information on letters to and from Berrigan in prison. These, plus Douglas' testimony, are the key government evidence to prove a conspiracy trial in this case. But the way Menaker said the defendants had been accused by the government of using Douglas to help their movement.

"I submit it was Mr. Douglas who was used," he added. "He was used by an agency of our federal government that all of us in the past have had great respect for. Douglas is not on trial in this case. But the way he was used by an agency of the federal government is on trial."

"The FBI carries him along and finances him—first because of Daniel Berrigan, and later because of embarrassment of the FBI by Mr. (J. Edgar) Hoover's statement."

Could Clear Many GIs

NEW YORK (UPI)—The 2nd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, in a decision which may ultimately clear the records of thousands of dishonorably discharged servicemen, ruled Tuesday that a Supreme Court decision limiting courts-martial to military offenses should be applied retroactively.

The decision—which runs counter to two previous U.S. Appeals Court decisions—came in the case of John W. Flemmings, a 46-year-old convict who in 1944 was sentenced to 26 months in a military jail and dishonorably discharged after pleading guilty to being absent without leave and stealing a car.

Because of the dishonorable discharge, Flemmings maintained, he had been unable to find a good job.

Flemmings' lawyer, Michael Meltzner, an associate law professor at Columbia University, said had the court-martial been only for being AWOL the sentence would have been a six-month term and a bad conduct discharge.

"You know what a stigma a dishonorable discharge is," Meltzner said. "This man bounced from odd jobs to minor jail terms for years until his current (prison) term started in 1964."

Flemmings presently is serving a term for robbery in a Pennsylvania jail.
